MONTHLY SUMMARY

OF

COMMERCE OF THE ISLAND OF CUBA.

JULY, 1901.

PREPARED IN

DIVISION OF INSULAR AFFAIRS,

WAR DEPARTMENT.

EXPLANATION OF REGULAR STATISTICAL TABLES.

General imports.—The regular statement of imports of merchandise, by articles and countries, in this publication is what is termed the statement of general imports, embracing imported articles entered for immediate consumption on arrival and articles entered for warehouse.

The term “entry for consumption” is the technical name of the import entry made at the custom-house, and does not imply that the goods have been actually consumed, but simply that they have been delivered into the custody of the importer and that the duties on the dutiable portion have been paid.

The values of articles imported are governed by the regulations in effect May 1, 1899, which prescribe that the values of imported merchandise subject to duty shall be “the actual market value or wholesale price of such merchandise as bought and sold in usual wholesale quantities at the time of exportation in the principal markets of the country from whence imported, and in the condition in which such merchandise is there bought for exportation or consigned for sale, including the value of all cartons, cases, crates, boxes, sacks, and coverings of any kind, and all other costs, charges, and expenses incident to placing the merchandise in condition ready for shipment.”

Domestic exports.—The regular statement of domestic exports, by articles and countries, in this publication exhibits the exports of domestic products or manufactures, also exports of commodities of foreign origin which have been changed from the form in which they were imported or enhanced in value by further manufacture.

The value of exports of domestic merchandise is their value at the time of exportation in the ports of the island whence they are exported.

Tonnage tables.—In the tables of tonnage movement the tonnage is stated in net tons of 100 cubic feet carrying space after the prescribed allowances are made for crew space, engine space, etc.

Weights.—In all tables published the ton weight is 2,240 pounds and the hundredweight is 112 pounds, unless indicated otherwise.

Customs districts.—Statements of imports, exports, and tonnage movement are shown by customs districts, which have a certain prescribed limit of territory with a port of entry.

HISTORY OF SUGAR IN THE ISLAND OF CUBA.

First Plantation Was Near Havana. First Sugar Cane Was Brought Here Three Hundred and Ninety Years Ago.

[From the Havana Post.]

The subjoined fragmentary history of the culture of sugar, particularly its development in Cuba, is a free translation of notes taken from the "Diccionario Geografico, Estadistico e Historico de la Isla de Cuba" by Jacobo de la Pezuela, published in Paris in 1863, and from the "Historia Fisica, Politica y Natural de la Isla de Cuba" by Ramon de la Sagra, published in Paris in 1842, and also from Dr. Sagra's "Cuba en 1862." These volumes, four of the former, and one each of the latter two, may be seen in the Biblioteca Publica de la Sociedad de Amigos del Pais, Dragones Street, near San Nicholas, Havana.

Dr. Edmond O. Von Lippmann, the German historian, says that sugar was known in Europe in 627, A. D., and the knowledge was brought by Emperor Herapuin from Persia, upon which he was making war. But sugar remained practically unknown in Europe until 1230, A. D., when Frederick II reigned in Prussia. The learned doctor adds that in 1260 sugar sold in London at 77 cents a pound. Alexander the Great is credited with discovering sugar cane in India four centuries before Christ; and 1700 years later, during the thirteenth century, ships hailing from the Ganges river in India, brought sugar cane in 1420 from somewhere into the Madeira Islands, then an appendage of Portugal, and the same year these enterprising people manufactured out of its juice a dark, sweet product. A year later a Venetian invented a process for making white sugar out of the cane juice. The Portuguese persisting in cane cultivation in St. Thomas Island, on the African coast, were making sugar in 1520 from cane grown on sixty or more plantations, by means of factories which were then known as "ingenios."

The Spaniards also brought the sugar cane to the southern part of their peninsula, and from there carried it to Hayti and Santo Domingo, in the West Indies. Miguel Ballasto, of the latter island, invented a process of crystalizing the juice. The French carried cane to San Cristobal in 1664, and two years later to Guadalupe. In 1648 the English planted cane in the Barbadoes, and during the same year it was planted by the Spanish in Mexico, Peru and Chili.

Sugar cane was brought to Cuba in 1511 from San Domingo; in 1550 four or five "ingenios" were operated near Havana. The first important machinery was set up on Jorge Diaz's plantation, on the Almendares river, and the power was obtained from that stream. But Cuba was ill supplied with laborers in those days, and the sugar industry made little progress. In 1616 Antonio Rojas imported several hundred negro slaves for the Havana cane fields. During the same year the enterprising Portuguese brought several shiploads of negroes from Brazil, and from other Portuguese possessions, all of whom found ready sale in this town. At that time there were fourteen "ingenios" in this neighborhood. By 1666 Havana province had made such headway in sugar production that its governor, Francisco Davile y Oregon, was enabled to find both the men and the means with which to build the first wall around the city of Havana.

After the peace of Utrecht the English monopolized the slave trade, and pushed it with vigor both in the West Indies, and in the colonies which are now the United States.

Slave depots were established by 1716 both at Havana and at Santiago, and these were followed with large importations of implements and machinery for the cultivation of cane and the making of sugar. In the meantime tobacco was a profitable product, and the records show that the money made by the sale of tobacco was largely invested in the development of sugar culture. This process of making tobacco pay for slaves and sugar machinery began as early as 1640, when the Havana Company was organized in this city with the exclusive privilege of doing all the foreign trade of the Island. At that time there were seventy "ingenios" in the Island. From that year until 1775 the development was rapid, and during the latter year there were six hundred "ingenios" at work in the island.

At the beginning the juice was extracted from the cane by means of a pestle and mortar. This was a slow and laborious process, and was soon superseded by the trapiche, two wooden rollers revolving on each other. Oxen furnished the power. Iron came in use two hundred years ago.

The first mill consisted of three iron cylinders, the middle moving in reverse order from the other two. Oxen made these move, too. It is said that one-half of the juice could be extracted by this method. Fifty years later, the process included the boiling of the juice in five boilers, called "pailas." In the first lime was introduced, which removed much of the extraneous matter by raising it to the surface, from which it was skimmed. It was next boiled successively in three other "pailases," with slight additions of potash and lime for the purpose of purification. The last or fifth boiler produced a thick syrup which was poured at once into the cucurucha, a conical shaped vessel, with a few holes in the bottom, in which the sugar crystalized. This vessel was first made of clay, next of tin, and finally of iron.

The end of Napoleon's wars, with the signing of the General European Peace, in 1815, gave sugar growing a tremendous boom in Cuba. This was augmented by the rapid importation of negro slaves during 1818, 1819, and 1820, when the importation of slaves was prohibited. In 1828, the Society of Friends of the Country, from whose library this information has been obtained, sent two of their most distinguished members to Jamaica to study sugar-making in that island, with the result that the most improved machinery was at once imported into this Island in large quantities. Almost simultaneously there was introduced both the Howard and Reguer systems of extracting the sugar by means of closed boilers, "tachos," from which the air was drawn. It was discovered by the aid of the new apparatus that sugar cane was ordinarily made up of nine-tenths fluid or juice, and only one-tenth of filament or wood. Before 1830 the mills in use never extracted more than two-thirds of the juice.

The blockade of continental Europe by Great Britain, during the Napoleonic wars, prevented Cuban sugar from getting into Spain and France. Very few vessels, loaded with sugar, left this Island between 1804 and 1809. Some records say only ten such ships got their cargoes into Europe during the entire period. It was then that the beet sugar cultivation was begun in France. Beginning the industry about 1810, in twenty years, just at the moment when Cuba was revolutionizing its method, France succeeded in producing 3,500,000 pounds of beet sugar, and thus did away with the necessity of importing much from Cuba. Several countries in South America began the cultivation of sorghum, from which, and from "other roots," adds the historian, were manufactured, in 1855, more than 32,000,000 pounds. Part of this product was maple sugar.

In 1827, just prior to the action of the Society of Friends of the Country in sending out agents to study the Jamaican method, there were about one thousand "ingenios" in operation in Cuba. Fifty years later, in 1877, at the close of the 'Ten Years' War, this number had been expanded to about twelve hundred. That year there were "ingenios" as follows: Pinar del Rio, 87; Havana, 180; Mantanzas, 509; Santa Clara, 334; Santiago de Cuba, 81; total, 1,191.

GROWING OF CANE IN CUBA.

[From the Havana Post of October 27, 1901.]

The growing of sugar-cane in Cuba has been a slow but steady process. The popular notion, both here and in the United States, is quite the contrary. It is believed that the growth has been sporadic, irregular, often extraordinary, and not readily gauged by periods of time. It is further believed, therefore, that the production of sugar-cane may be quickly and extravagantly accelerated. Tradition has it that cane was first planted here in 1523. It is fairly well established that at the end of the Seventeenth Century the entire product of the Island did not exceed 50,000 tons, which was the yield of beet sugar in 1840. In 1817 the cane sugar crop reached 70,000 tons. In 1835 it exceeded 100,000 tons. Between 1840 and 1850 the product hovered between 200,000 and 300,000 tons. It was 322,000 tons in 1853, which was just about the yield of 1898.

There is a remarkable sameness in the figures recurring through the last forty years, and the crop of 1900 is precisely what the crop of 1876 was. Here are fourteen typical crops, all of them exceeding the half-million mark, which illustrates the steady uniformity of the growth of cane in Cuba:

YEARS.	TONS.	YEARS.	TONS.
1859	536,000	1877	520,000
1862	525,000	1878	533,000
1863	507,000	1880	530,000
1864	575,000	1882	595,000
1867	597,000	1884	559,000
1871	547,000	1889	560,000
1876	590,000	1900	590,000

The average product for sixty years is 510,000 tons, and during that period it reached high-water mark in 1894 with 1,054,000, less than twice the average; and low-water mark in 1897 when, because of the war, it was depressed to 212,000 tons. The Ten Years' War had little or no effect upon the production. The introduction of better methods about that time more than balanced the destruction of war. The yield first reached the 700,000 mark in 1868, when the war broke out. The production through the Ten Year War period ranged as follows:

YEARS.	TONS.	YEARS.	TONS.
1868	746,000	1874	681,000
1869	726,000	1875	718,000
1870	726,000	1876	590,000
1871	547,000	1877	520,000
1872	690,900	1878	533,000
1873	775,000	Average, 660,000

Not until the latter part of the war had it any effect upon the sugar production. In 1879 a spurt was made producing 670,000 tons, but after that year, for five successive seasons, the production barely exceeded the average for the last sixty years. It was during this latter period that beet sugar made its appearance on the market, beginning with 1,750,000 tons in 1880, and reaching 2,260,000 tons in 1884, when the price of Cuban sugar fell under four cents for the first time. For the next six years the production was held pretty level, notwithstanding the steadily falling prices, the figures running as follows:

YEARS.	TONS.	YEARS.	TONS.
1885	631,000	1889	560,000
1886	732,000	1890	632,000
1887	647,000	Average, 643,000
1888	657,000

Under the pressure from the beet sugar this average fell lower than that of the war period given above.

The McKinley Bill, which made sugar non-dutiable in the United States, became a law in the fall of 1890, when Cuba produced 632,000 tons. The next year, 1891, under the promise held out by the aforesaid act, the Cuban yield was made to reach 817,000 tons, an increase of 29 per cent.; in 1892 the increase was nearly 20 per cent., making the total 977,000 tons; 1893 it fell back, because of natural causes, to 816,000 tons, but in 1894 it rose to 1,054,000 tons, an increase of 8 per cent. of the crop of 1892. In 1895 the crop fell back again, showing that under the utmost stimulus, with the facilities then on hand, Cuba could barely exceed the million mark. The planters lacked laborers, machinery, oxen, roads, railroads and all the facilities necessary to excessive production. That was before the war, when the conditions for extending the industry were probably 50 per cent. better than they are to-day. There is at present no lack of facility for grinding the cane. There is plenty of machinery in the Island; there is enough grinding machinery to turn out 1,500,000 tons, but there is not enough labor in the Island to harvest much more than half of that amount. There are those who are talking about 800,000 tons as the yield for 1901, but the best informed growers insist that the yield will fall below that figure, and they say that it will be several years, four at least, before the million mark shall be reached again. It will take several thousand more oxen or mules, tens of thousands more laborers and millions more capital. Even if the United States should open its markets again by restoring the provisions of the McKinley Act, which is not improbable, it is not believed that a million tons of sugar could be produced in Cuba before 1905. Hundreds of miles of road and railroad will have to be constructed and equipped before such a crop could be harvested and delivered.

It is estimated that 700,000 laborers were engaged in the great harvests of 1894 and 1895, of whom at least 20 per cent. were removed by the war. Only a small part of this extraordinary loss has been supplied by immigration. The total immigration during the last three years does not reach 60,000, and of these fewer than a third have found their way to the sugar fields.

The destruction of working animals was far more disastrous. The reports agree that both oxen and mules were practically wiped out. Not 10 per cent. of the former were spared. In 1892 there were 2,600,000 head of cattle in the Island. To-day there are fewer than 750,000, of which probably 500,000 are oxen. There were 50,000 mules in the Island before the war. Only a third of these have been replaced by importation. It is not an over statement, in view of the foregoing facts and figures, to say that the conditions in 1894 for the production of sugar in this Island were 50 per cent. better than they are to-day, virtually three years after the close of the war.

Beginning ten years ago, the United States has practically absorbed the entire Cuban crop. The part sold to all other countries during that period is too small to present in per centenes. That country has absorbed 85 per cent. of the Cuban sugar for the last thirty years. Of the 18,520,000 tons produced since 1870, there were shipped to the United States 15,628,000 tons. The average per year approximates 521,000 tons, or 1,166,866,000 pounds. Prior to 1897 the shipments to the United States have been exceedingly uniform, the figures disclosing the same regularity in production which are disclosed by the totals of production by the Island during the thirty years preceding 1871. They make a remarkable showing of steady but slow growth and demonstrate that natural rather than artificial causes have been influencing the development of the sugar industry in Cuba. From its inception as a marketable factor, probably ninety years ago, the industry has been subjected to a most conservative policy, and it will be some time before this policy can be changed.

The sugar importations by the United States from Cuba will be found very interesting. A careful study of them will do much to alleviate the fear which many persons in that country have that with free sugar Cuba would immediately submerge the American industry. The increase in the Cuban product has been far slower than the increase of the demand by the United States. That country will consume this year three times as much sugar as it did in 1870, while the largest Cuban product, that of 1894, was only a third larger than the Cuban crop of 1870. The quantity in pounds, and value per pound, of all sugar sold by Cuba to the United States for the last thirty years are given as follows :

THE IMPENDING CRISIS IN EUROPEAN SUGAR.

Consul General Frank H. Mason, of Berlin, in his report to the Department of State, dated October 14, 1901, says :

"It is generally recognized that the beet sugar industry of central Europe is approaching a critical conjuncture. Germany, Austria-Hungary, France, and Russia, are now gathering a beet crop which will yield an output of sugar far surpassing in quantity that of any previous year.

"This overwhelming product comes, unfortunately for Germany, at a time when industrial depression and a short wheat and rye crop have seriously reduced the purchasing capacity of the poorer classes, so that a high commercial authority estimates the decline in sugar consumption in Germany alone, during the fiscal year 1901-1902, at 75,000 tons. To complete and still further darken the shadow, Cuba has reappeared as a vigorous and threatening competitor in the United States, which, during the past four years, has taken an average of 283,000 metric tons of German sugar, valued roughly at 53,000,000 marks ($12,614,000) per annum.

"Under all these conditions, the price of sugar has fallen in the controlling market at Magdeburg to the lowest point reached during the critical year 1894-95, from which it was rescued by an advance in the export bounty, and a constantly increasing home consumption of sugar, which was then favored by prosperous industries and growing export trade, which steadily augmented the comfort and purchasing power of a large percentage of the German people. Now, however, it is generally recognized that the only remedy will be in the direction of diminished production, and the chief organ of the German sugar industry declares that a definite and important restriction of the sugar beet area, to be planted next spring, has become an unavoidable necessity.

"For these obvious reasons, great interest has been awakened throughout this country by the recent visit to Washington of the governor-general of Cuba, and the conviction is growing that, notwithstanding all doubts and suspicions, Cuba is really about to begin the career of an independent state, under the generous and sympathetic protection of the United States, and under conditions which will favor the development of the sugar industry of the Island to a point beyond the highest productiveness of former years. The obvious and sustained friendliness of the United States Government to Cuba, the impending increase of sugar production in Porto Rico, Hawaii, and the Philippines, added to the steady and rapid development of the beet sugar industry throughout a large area of the United States, all point to an inevitable and definite decline in European sugar exports to our country, and confirm the judgment of those who foresee that the only effective remedy for ruinously low prices will be a systematic reduction of beet area and product."

APPROXIMATE PRODUCTION OF BEET SUGAR IN 1901.

Mr. Henry W. Diederich, United States Consul at Bremen, in his report of October 12, 1901, to the Department of State, says :

"It is obviously impossible at this early day, when the beet growers are digging up this year's crop of sugar beets and are hauling it to the factories, to give an accurate estimate of the amount of sugar that may be looked for at the end of this season in the chief producing countries of Europe. Mr. Licht, the well known statistician, and perhaps the highest authority on this subject, has published the following figures, which he himself guardedly presents for what they are worth :

APPROXIMATE ESTIMATE OF THE EUROPEAN BEET SUGAR CROP COMPARED WITH FORMER YEARS.

COUNTRY.	1900-1901.	1899-1900.	1898-99.	1897-98.
	TONS.	TONS.	TONS.	TONS.
Germany.....	1,979,098	1,798,631	1,721,718	1,852,857
Austria.....	1,094,043	1,108,007	1,051,290	831,667
France.....	1,170,332	977,850	830,132	821,235
Russia.....	920,000	905,787	776,066	738,715
Belgium.....	340,000	302,865	244,017	265,397
Holland.....	178,081	171,029	149,763	125,658
Other countries.....	387,450	253,929	209,115	196,245

"According to this estimate, there would be an increase in this year's yield amounting to about 551 tons.

"The Centralblatt fuer Zuckerindustrie, another careful computer, after looking over the ground, publishes the following approximating estimate of the sugar crop of 1901 in Europe :

	Tons.
Germany.....	2,125,000
France.....	1,190,000
Holland.....	200,000
Austria.....	1,225,000
Russia.....	1,000,000
Other lands.....	450,000

"Reports from the United States are very encouraging, considering that the beet sugar industry there has just been fairly started and has many difficulties to contend with that are unknown in Europe. The American beet crop will be larger than ever before, and, altogether, it would not be surprising if the world's production this year would amount to 6,600,000 tons of beet sugar. All the figures obtainable up to the present seem to safely show one fact, and that is that there will be considerably more sugar this year than there was last, particularly as all the cane growing countries, notably Cuba, are reporting a considerable increase over former years.

"At present, the market in Europe for beet sugar is very weak ; prices are extremely low, and have been for some time. There will probably be some legislation next winter affecting several sugar producing countries. The question of reducing sowings next season is receiving attention in various countries ; and there is again considerable talk of a conference to meet this winter, for the abolition of sugar bounties."

THE SUGAR TRADE IN BRAZIL.

In the bulletin of the French board of trade here, an expert publishes a very interesting article on the sugar trade in Brazil, from which the Brazilian Review makes the following extracts, says Consul-General Eugene Seeger, in his report dated September 5, 1901, transmitted from Rio de Janeiro to the State Department :

"The manufacture and commerce of cane sugar in Brazil, although of considerable importance, have hitherto never attracted much attention from European or American capitalists.

"Both English and Americans purchase to a certain amount in these markets, principally in the north, and, as will be seen by the following figures, these purchases, principally for New York and Liverpool, are by no means inconsiderable :

Annual Production.

"The annual sugar production in Brazil is estimated at 250,000 tons, distributed as follows :

Producing district.	Factories.	Mills.	Quantity.
	Number.	Number.	Bags.
Pernambuco.....	30	1,500	2,000,000
Parahyba.....	1	200	90,000
Campos (Rio de Janeiro).....	40	400	450,000
Sao Paulo.....	5	200,000
Bahia.....	12	200	300,000
Alagoas.....	2	600	800,000
Sergipe.....	1	700	80,000
Minas and Rio.....	6	50	120,000
Total.....	4,040,000

Export.

"The export of sugar to foreign countries in 1900 was about 30,000 tons, and the remaining 220,000 tons were shipped to different states of the republic or consumed on the spot.

"Not only is there no premium for export, but, in fact, sugar is subject to an export duty, which is always a cause of complaint.

"In 1900, exports to foreign countries, were, in round numbers, 31,060 tons—to New York, 25,000 tons ; to Liverpool, 6,000 tons ; and to Havre, 60 tons.

"In 1901, exports took a somewhat larger development, statistics up to the end of April giving the following results: From Pernambuco, 30,000 tons; from Maceio, 20,090 tons; or 50,090 tons in all in four months, against 31,600 for the whole year of 1900.

Factories—Small Yield Through Poor Methods.

"Compared with the large area under cultivation, the factories are but few. In only one is the diffusion process actually employed. Machinery has been furnished principally by Cail, Fives Lille, and some German makers, and, although of the most modern kind, is often incomplete. For this reason the vacuum pans are often unaccompanied by the triple-action engines.

"A better idea will be obtained of the working of those factories from the fact that the average yield is only 7 per cent, while by the diffusion process 11 per cent can be obtained.

"The factories may be divided into two distinct classes, the central factories and the small mills in which sugar is made by the old process, the latter being very numerous in some districts.

"The personnel of the central factories is generally composed of foreigners in the early periods, but is nearly always substituted by nationals later on. There are, however, some factories, especially in Sao Paulo, which are entirely directed by foreigners. The capital employed is almost entirely national, with the exception of a few central factories in Bahia and Pernambuco worked by English capital, and in Sao Paulo with French.

Prices.—Bad Condition of the Home Market.

"In order to form an idea of the value of sugar in Brazil, it is necessary to take the average of three preceding seasons, as this year prices have fallen so terribly in consequence of special local conditions and the financial crisis through which the country is passing.

"The disappearance of the great commission houses has left the market without guide or direction, and has obliged both central factories and small mills to often consign their sugar to parties unable to hold it back.

"To this must be added the difficulties of discount and credit produced by the financial crisis, which have prevented any operations on a large scale and greatly reduced the importance of this class of operations.

"During the last three years, sugars were quoted in the Rio market as follows:

Description.	1898.		1899.		1900.
	Reis.*	Cents.	Reis.*	Cents.	Reis.*	Cents.
White crystals.....per kilogram†..	550	8.8	700	11.2	500	8
Yellow crystals.....do....	450	7.2	600	9.6	400	6.4
Bruto secco.....do....	420	6.7	450	7.2	350	5.6
Bruto melado.....do....	320	5.1	400	6.4	250	4

* Taking the average value of the milreis (1,000 reis=1 milreis) in these years at 16 cents, as given in Commercial Relations, 1899 and 1900.

† 1 kilogram = 2.2046 pounds.

"In 1901, in consequence of the circumstances we have enumerated, prices fell as follows:

Description.	Price.
	Reis.	Cents.
White crystals.....per kilogram..	280	4.4
Yellow crystals.....do....	240	3.8
Bruto secco.....do....	220	3.5
Bruto melado.....do....	160	2.5

"The central and other factories generally consign their sugars to Rio de Janeiro, the principal market.

"The amount sold at Rio on account of the factories is calculated at 80,000 tons per annum.

"Consignments are made drawing for 80 per cent of the value of the sugar, consignees receiving 5 per cent on the sale and interest on the amount advanced. But at the present moment consignments are too much split up, and the market consequently lacks direction.

Chances for a Sugar Trust.

"A few houses, especially German, have attempted to concentrate at least a part of the production, but they have found difficulties in coming to terms with the factories, and up to the present nothing definite has been done toward forming a sugar trust. The undertaking, however, is far from impossible, would require moderate capital, would certainly give large profits, and is, therefore, well worth studying.

"A syndicate, with four agencies at Rio de Janeiro and Campos, Pernambuco and Maceio, Bahia and Aracaju, and Sao Paulo, could not only monopolize the Brazilian market, but also the export trade, and thus reunite the numerous, scattered, and often counteracting forces into a single effort for the general welfare.

No Sugar Refinery in Brazil.

"It is extraordinary that, with so considerable a production and consumption of sugar, there should be no regular refinery in Brazil. At present, the different sugars—raw, crystals, whites, yellows, etc.—are generally worked up by small refineries into more or less white powder, which goes by the name of refined sugar in the country.

"We understand that one of the most successful of the central factories—that of Parahyba and Sergipe—is endeavoring to arrange the establishment of a refinery on a great scale in the city of Rio de Janeiro.

Old But Undeveloped.

"Summing up, the sugar industry in Brazil is, compared with the enormous area fit for production, yet in its infancy. What has still to be done is to complete the factories, improve the cultivation of the cane, create a great refinery, and give a single direction to the interior and exterior commerce.

Opportunity for American Capital.

"A gentleman, well acquainted with sugar production in Brazil, told me that through the introduction of modern machinery and methods, the sugar industry could be made very remunerative here. In this connection, I wish to state that the majority of the shares of a corporation owning the two largest and best sugar factories in Brazil, and enjoying very valuable concessions and privileges, can be bought at what would seem to be very reasonable figures. This is the time to pick up industrial bargains in Brazil."

Brussels Sugar Congress.

Consul Covert writes from Lyons, September 23, 1901, to the Department of State :

"The sugar interests in France are giving a great deal of attention to the international sugar congress to be held in Brussels this fall. It is remarked that heretofore the fixing of bounties on the production of sugar was of importance to France, Germany, and Austria only ; but as the output has been immeasurably increased within the last few years, other countries have become immediately interested in the subject. The output of sugar in France this year will probably be an increase over that of former years. The Economiste Francais, of September 14, reports the beet crop of European countries as very large, and quotes an immense stock on hand in England, 'which, unfortunately,' it adds, 'has become almost our only customer.' The same paper notes that the importations into England are very limited."

Sugar Industry in Italy.

Mr. Frank W. Hossfeld, Consul at Trieste, in his report to the Department of State, dated September 6, 1901, says :

"There seems to be no longer any doubt that Italy will, within a few years, turn from a sugar-importing to a sugar-exporting country. The past two seasons have witnessed a remarkable development of her beet-sugar industry. Previous to 1899, there were in the entire kingdom only four sugar factories, with a total annual capacity of about 8,000 tons. During the seasons of 1899-1900, the number of factories increased to twenty-four, and the production quadrupled. At the end of the year 1900, there existed twenty-eight raw sugar factories and ten refineries, while six factories and two refineries were in course of construction. The industry continued to develop during the season just closed, but such strides as had been generally anticipated were not made. This was chiefly due to the imposition of a new sugar tax—which, in a measure, checked the spirit of enterprise—as well as to the fact that the beet crop was both meagre in quantity and indifferent in quality.

"Official data as to the yield of the season of 1900-1901 are not yet accessible, but, according to the opinion of those best able to judge, the amount of raw sugar manufactured will reach 550,000 quintals (55,000 tons). This is more than half of the total quantity annually consumed in the kingdom.

"The following table shows the production, importation, and consumption of sugar in Italy during the quinquennium 1895-1899 :

Year.	Produc- tion.	Importa- tion.	Total con- sumption.
	Metric tons.	Metric tons.	Metric tons.
1895-96.....	3,530	78,510	77,040
1896-97.....	3,060	74,180	77,240
1897-98.....	5,160	74,270	79,370
1898-99.....	7,960	75,330	83,300
1899-1900.....	30,820	58,440	89,260

"Conservative manufacturers now promise for the ensuing campaign a production of 65,000 tons, and affirm that within four or five years Italy will produce sufficient sugar to supply her own demand.

"The home product pays a consumption tax of 67.20 lire paper per quintal, or 5.55 cents per pound. The duty laid on imported raw sugar is 88 lire gold (16.98). As gold, however, commands a premium of 6 per cent, this is equal to 93.28 lire paper. The advantage, therefore, which the home manufacturer has over his foreign competitor in the way of taxation amounts to 26 lire ($4.68) per quintal (220.46 pounds), and this alone gives him practically a monopoly of the sugar trade. But this is not the only favor he receives at the hands of the state. He need not pay the sugar tax in cash, but may in lieu thereof give to the state a note payable six months from date, without interest; and his products, as well as the raw beets, enjoy reduced freight rates on all the railways of the peninsula.

"In spite of the protection thus given to the home industry, the Italian manufacturers demand that the duty upon the imported article be still further increased. It is not likely that the government will make an attempt to change its sugar tariff before the expiration of the present treaties. Should it, however, in the negotiation of the new treaties, and the incident revision of the customs laws, respect the wishes of the beet and sugar producing interests, and increase the duty on the imported article, there is every reason to believe that within a quinquennium Italy would be seeking a foreign market for her surplus sugar."

Sugar in Austria-Hungary in 1901.

Consul Hossfeld reports from Trieste, November 7, 1901, to the Department of State :

"Official estimates, based upon reports received from all the sugar factories in Austria-Hungary, place the monarchy's production of sugar for the current season at 1,224,800 tons, against 1,083,300 tons for that ended June 1, 1901. The total sugar beet crop of Austria-Hungary is estimated at 85,000,000 quintals (8,500,000 metric tons), against 74,000,000 quintals in 1900. Nearly half of this quantity—viz, 4,000,000 tons—was produced in Bohemia. The constant expansion of the sugar industry in Europe, and the gradual loss of some of its important eastern markets, are almost certain to bring about a serious crisis at a not very distant period."

† Apparent loss in exports to United States is accounted for from the fact that during the first nine months of 1899 about $7,000,000 of tobacco and cigars destined for the United Kingdom was shipped via New York and reported to this Division as exports to the United States, the countries of ultimate destination not being given.

OF

COMMERCE OF THE ISLAND OF CUBA.

AUGUST, 1901.

PREPARED IN

DIVISION OF INSULAR AFFAIRS,

WAR DEPARTMENT.

EXPLANATION OF REGULAR STATISTICAL TABLES.

General imports.—The regular statement of imports of merchandise, by articles and countries, in this publication is what is termed the statement of general imports, embracing imported articles entered for immediate consumption on arrival and articles entered for warehouse.

The term “entry for consumption” is the technical name of the import entry made at the custom-house, and does not imply that the goods have been actually consumed, but simply that they have been delivered into the custody of the importer and that the duties on the dutiable portion have been paid.

The values of articles imported are governed by the regulations in effect May 1, 1899, which prescribe that the values of imported merchandise subject to duty shall be “the actual market value or wholesale price of such merchandise as bought and sold in usual wholesale quantities at the time of exportation in the principal markets of the country from whence imported, and in the condition in which such merchandise is there bought for exportation or consigned for sale, including the value of all cartons, cases, crates, boxes, sacks, and coverings of any kind, and all other costs, charges, and expenses incident to placing the merchandise in condition ready for shipment.”

Domestic exports.—The regular statement of domestic exports, by articles and countries, in this publication exhibits the exports of domestic products or manufactures, also exports of commodities of foreign origin which have been changed from the form in which they were imported or enhanced in value by further manufacture.

The value of exports of domestic merchandise is their value at the time of exportation in the ports of the island whence they are exported.

Tonnage tables.—In the tables of tonnage movement the tonnage is stated in net tons of 100 cubic feet carrying space after the prescribed allowances are made for crew space, engine space, etc.

Weights.—In all tables published the ton weight is 2,240 pounds and the hundredweight is 112 pounds, unless indicated otherwise.

Customs districts.—Statements of imports, exports, and tonnage movement are shown by customs districts, which have a certain prescribed limit of territory with a port of entry.

NOTES.

AGRICULTURE, COMMERCE AND INDUSTRIES IN CUBA.

(Extract from the report of Mr. Perfecto Lacoste, Secretary of Agriculture, Commerce and Industries. Dated December 31, 1900.)

Plantation for the Manufacture of Sugar.

The manufacture of sugar has been progressing considerably since some years prior to the last war ; as nearly all the Centrales had installed furnaces for burning the bagasse ; machinery and large sugar mills for grinding the cane had also been installed, as well as regrinding machines and shredders ; defactors, triple effects for the evaporation, concentration and cooking of the cane juice were newly established in some places and increased in others ; the best centrifugals known, to separate the molasses from the sugar, were installed ; chemical laboratories to insure the success of the physical-chemical operation of manufacture, were established. And all the modern improvements, known up to date in connection with this industry, were also installed with satisfactory results.

Another of the improvements made in the sugar estates, which we must mention, is the establishment, in a great many of them, of economic railways for the interior service of the factories and warehouses, besides those built of narrow or wide guage to run from the bateyes to the wharves on the coast, or to other railroad lines of public services, as the case may be, in order to reduce the cost of transportation of the products to the different markets.

For the purpose of loading the cane in the fields and unloading it at the place of shipment either by rail or boat, or at the conductors of the mills, different systems have been established, some of which have been patented in this country, which have been found very convenient, owing to the facility with which the loading and unloading operations are effected and the natural saving of labor obtained thereby.

Starch, Yucca and Coffee Centrales.

Those in existence before the war were destroyed in their greater part during the war and have not been rebuilt.

The province of Santiago de Cuba is the only one doing anything in regard to the reconstruction of the coffee plantations.

Sugar Cane Colonies.

Very little is being done in this respect, due to the lack of funds on the part of the owners of the land where those colonies existed, which prevents them from making the necessary loans ; due to the fact that the owners of the centrals for making sugar cannot advance the money to build factories, to purchase oxen and agricultural implements to prepare and plant the fields, &c., &c., and because there are no agricultural banks to fill that necessity.

Farms and Cattle Ranches.

Some of these estates are being reconstructed, although, as a rule, only for pasturing purposes. The improvement in the existing breeds is not yet noticeable, because it is only a short time ago (after the war) that people began to devote their energies, though slowly, to the re-establishment of their ranches for breeding purposes.

Tobacco Vegas.

In the province of Santa Clara and Pinar del Rio nearly all the vegas that existed prior to the war have been reconstructed. The crops were large, due to the money furnished for that purpose by the merchants and manufacturers of tobacco established in Havana, but the positive results have been very discouraging, because a great portion of that production has not been shipped, due to the high export duties in Cuba and import duties in the United States.

In certain places in Pinar del Rio and Havana, specially in the municipal term of Guira de Melena, a system of irrigation has been established by means of iron pipes, to insure the crops against the lack of rain water.

Small Farms for Minor Products.

There is great activity displayed in these small farms in connection with their reconstruction and development, because they can be worked with small capital, and in the majority of cases the owners themselves are engaged in that kind of work.

The municipal term of Guines and those parts of Havana washed by the "Almendares" river may be cited as an example, in so far as refers to horticultural products, not because the cultivation is carried on with the care it should be, but owing to the great number of owners in those places who are assiduously engaged in that business, and to the fertility of the grounds as well. In normal times those districts almost exclusively furnish the Havana market with garden stuff and vegetables.

Size and Value of the Crops.

In 1894, one year previous to the last war, the sugar crop amounted to 1,054,214 tons of 2240 lbs each. The tobacco crop of that year was as follows:

From Vuelta Abajo and Havana.....	224,000 bales.
From Las Villas and the East (approximately).....	230,000 "
Total	454,000 bales

which bales, computed at an average of 50 kilos each, make a total weight of 22,700,000 kilos.

The value of the sugars and the principal agricultural products exported in the same year was as follows:

Sugar	$65,000,000
Tobacco.....	25,000,000
Molasses and rum	12,000,000
Coffee ..	1,510,000
Fruits and vegetables.....	1,150,000
Total	$104,660,000

During the fiscal year ending June 30, 1900, the production of sugar amounted to 283,651 English tons of 2240 lbs., which at the average price of 5.21 reales ($0.12½, or an American shilling), the "arroba" (about 25 lbs.) amounts to $16,317,453 in Spanish gold, equal to $14,839,645 in American gold.

The production of tobacco, although not known definitely up to the making of this report, can be approximately calculated in 507,200 bales, distributed in the following manner:

Vuelta Abajo.....	227,200 bales
Partido.....	60,000 "
Villas.....	200,000 "
Eastern.....	20,000 "
Total.....	507,200 bales

The exports of this product during the fiscal year 1899-1900 were as follows:

Leaf tobacco.....	127,706 bales.
Manufactured tobacco.....	205,744,720 cigars.
Cigarettes.....	11,081,947 packages.

As regards the other agricultural products, nothing of a definite nature can be said. The coffee harvested prior to said date, although in small quantities, was nearly all stored in the places where produced at the time these data were received. Molasses was still being made, and in regard to the other vegetables and fruits, this department is without any information.

Agriculture.

In conclusion, we shall make the following remarks :

The Island produces two crops of corn yearly, one in the wet and one in the dry season. The first is sowed in the months of April and May, and the second during October and November, harvesting of the wet-season crop taking place during August and September, and the dry crop being gathered during the months of February and March.

It also produces two crops of beans, the planting of which takes place at the same time as the corn and harvested somewhat earlier ; it is sometimes gathered even sooner, in order to secure the bean green, in which state it is called string beans.

In addition to the above grains, those mostly cultivated in this country are peas and rice.

The rice is harvested during the months from August to October, but in small quantities, inasmuch as the major part of that consumed is imported, in spite of the fact that it is easily grown here and the quality is excellent.

The peas are sown all the year round, but particularly from September to February, and are picked as soon as they begin to ripen.

If they are green, they are preferable, and are known as green peas.

According to the experiments made on a small scale, barley and oats are easily cultivated on this Island, but no one has devoted himself to the cultivation of same.

The plants commonly used in the Island for green forage are : The "maloja," which is the leaf of the corn, planted for that purpose ; the same leaf from the sugar cane plant ; a long species of grass known as "guinesa," which grass resists the longest periods of drought and can be harvested at all seasons of the year ; and the "Parana," or "Paral," by which name it is commonly known, and which grass abounds in damp lands.

There are a great many natural pasture lands in the Island, such as that called "Castilla," a grass considered as good as the "guinesa," fine grass, &c., &c.; by bulbous plants, such as sweet potatoes, "Campanilla," "La Conchuta," "Marrullero," and by other plants known as "Omerillo," "Espartillo," "Guisaso," "Malvas," "Gramas," "Rabo de Zorra," &c., &c., and which are always to be found in abundance excepting during the season of the worst droughts.

The "higuereta," or Indian fig-tree, grows wild in this country, as well as a great many trees and plants containing medicinal properties, and other plants of various kinds.

The fruits exported to the United States, by reason of the great demand for same, are : Coconuts, the cultivation of which takes up a great part of the lands lying towards the north coast of the province of Santiago de Cuba; bananas, also abounding in the same locality in said province; pineapples, which are cultivated in all parts of the Island, especially in the province of Havana; and oranges, which are easily produced in any of the provinces.

Our fields also yield a great many other fruits, viz., the "Aguacate," "Anon," "Caimito," "Canistal," the "West Indian Cherry," the "Chirimoya," "citron," "plums," "chestnut," "Corojo," "date," "Guanabana," "Pomegranate," "Grosellas (currants)," "Guabas," "cactus fig," "Hicaco," "Higuera," or Indian fig, the "tuna fig," the "Mamey" (yellow and red), the "Mamonzillo," "Mango," "Maranon," "Morera," "Papayero," "bread fruit," "Zapote," "Pomarosa," "tamarind," "toronja," "melons," &c., &c. Grapes are also produced in special cases, which goes to show that they could be successfully cultivated on a large scale.

The conditions in the Island are favorable for the cultivation of rubber, the planting of which has not received the attention it deserves; the same may be said with regard to cotton, which could be easily raised; also hemp, ramie, and other textile plants.

The Eucalyptus, recognized for its hygienic properties, especially for combating malaria and yellow fever, is also easily produced in this country; but the "Eucalyptus Globulus," the cultivation of which was attempted as an experiment by a well-known American agriculturist, at the beginning of 1899, is not suitable to the climate in Cuba, as has been demonstrated by experience; and in spite of the greatest care exercised, only a very limited number have thrived; on the other hand, the "Resinous Eucalyptus" grows easily and rapidly, and is always strong and vigorous. The Isle of Pines, situated to the south of the waters of Batabano, between which points a line of steamers ply, and which at present have weekly sailings, is also suitable for tobacco raising, due to the favorable condition of the soil in a good part of the island lying towards the septentrional part of the island; it is also favorable for raising pineapples and oranges and other fruit trees, but agriculture has been sadly neglected in that island.

Cost of Cultivation and Production of Sugar-Cane, Coffee, Tobacco and Bananas.

The average cost of cultivating one caballeria of land (33.1633 acres) planted with sugar-cane, coffee, tobacco or bananas, as well as the average yield of same, is as follows:

Sugar-Cane.

The average cost of cultivation until ready for cutting is the following:

Work of preparation	$ 415.00
Seed	120.00
Planting	283.00
Mechanical cultivation	383.00
Total	$1,201.00

These charges are subject to changes and could be reduced to $1,000.00, according to circumstances.

The average cost of cutting, loading and hauling a caballeria of cane varies according to the locality and the distance the cane is to be carted; but a safe estimate would be about $1.20 per 100 arrobas.

The average yield of one caballeria of good land is approximately from 50,000 to 60,000 arrobas per year, during a period of five years. The crop varies according to the nature of the soil and the care given its cultivation.

In virgin soil the crop can be made to yield as much as 100,000 arrobas of cane.

The average yield of every 100 arrobas of cane is estimated at ten and one-half to eleven arrobas of sugar, provided it has been manufactured by the use of modern machinery and under competent management.

Coffee.

The average cost, per annum, of one caballeria of land is as follows :

FIRST YEAR.

Clearing the land	$ 300.00
Digging, laying out and planting	384.00
Cost of the nursery plants	66.25
Stakes or supports for the plants	25.00
Weeding	150.00
Total	$ 925.25

SECOND YEAR.

Replacing of the supports	$ 66.25
Weeding	150.00
Total	$ 216.25

THIRD YEAR.

Cleaning	150.00
Sundry cares of cultivation	50.00
Total	$ 200.00
Total average expenses for three years	$1,341.50

The estimated yield at the end of three years is 100 quintals (cwt.) per caballeria of land. The average price per quintal is $20.00.

After the third year the output increases, while the expenses decrease, and if, as is usual, bananas are planted with the coffee, the cost of preparation and maintenance is covered by the proceeds of the sale of the bananas.

Tobacco.

The average cost of cultivation for one caballeria of land and the weed baled, ready for shipment to market, is as follows :

Preparation of the soil.....	$ 450.00
Cost of 560 arrobas of fertilizer, at $80.00 per ton.....	420.00
Cost of 561,000 nursery plants, required by each caballeria, at $2.50 per M.....	1,402.50
Planting, nurseries and fertilizing.....	165.00
Labor, management, during three months' of harvesting, and care of warehouses.....	1,982.00
Cutting, harvesting and carting to drying sheds.....	644.00
For piling the tobacco in heaps.....	40.00
Gathering the seed, of one caballeria.....	50.00
Wear and tear and sundries.....	300.00
Cost of selection, including majagua, yagua and baling, estimating the yield of one caballeria at 211 bales.....	1,688.00
Total.....	$7,141.50

The product is estimated as follows :

Average value of the 211 bales, proceeds of one caballeria, at $50.00.....	$10,550.00
Value of the 54 arrobas of seed produced by said caballeria, at $4.00 the arroba.....	216.00
Value of the stems, which are sold as a fertilizer.....	12.00

Remarks.

1st. The cost of preparing the land, its cultivation, harvesting, &c., has been estimated according to past figures obtained, taking as a basis one dollar, being the price paid the hands on a tobacco plantation.

2nd. The item charged to fertilizer can be considerably reduced by preparing same on the spot.

3rd. The planter can also reduce to one-fifth of the cost the item of $1402.50, charged to nursery plants, by preparing, in season, his own seed-plot.

The number of bales yielded by one caballeria of land, as well as the price named, is an average of the different kinds of tobacco produced in each crop; but all things considered, it varies greatly, according to the quality of the leaf. The best quality leaf, which is lighter in weight than that of the inferior class, reduces the number of bales produced; but, notwithstanding this fact, the value of the crop is greater.

The average weight of a bale of tobacco is 50 kilos, and the prices are graded as follows:

Vuelta Abajo.	According to grade and quality.
Wrappers.....	$40.00 to $500.00 per bale.
Superior fillers, for export.....	40.00	"	50.00	"
Medium fillers.....	25.00	"	40.00	"
Inferior fillers.....	15.00	"	25.00	"
• Skimmings.....	8.00	"	15.00	"
Villas.
Wrappers.....	70.00	"	100.00	"
First class fillers (capadura).....	30.00	"	50.00	"
Second class fillers (capadura).....	15.00	"	35.00	"
Third class fillers (capadura).....	8.00	"	14.00	"
Skimmings.....	5.00	"	8.00	"
Oriente (Eastern).
Good.....	$15.00 to $18.00
Long.....	7.00	"	8.00	"
Scraps.....	4.00	"	5.00	"

The cost of production of tobacco is almost the same in the province of Pinar del Rio (Vuelta Abajo) as in the rest of the Island ; but subject to change, according to the nature of the soil selected for the purpose, the care given its cultivation, the quality of the labor employed, the pay of same, according to circumstances and locality, &c. It should be remembered that tobacco of inferior quality gives a larger crop and weighs more.

Bananas.

In the lands situated on the north coast of the province of Santiago de Cuba, and which lands are especially used by agriculturists for the cultivation of bananas (Guineos) for export, the cost of cultivation, for one caballeria of land, is as follows :

FIRST YEAR.

Felling and clearing.....	$ 300.00
Laying out and digging for 7,500 plants, necessary for one caballeria.....	56.00
Planting and labor.....	517.50
Cutting and carting to the nearest point of shipment, 7,000 bunches (the yield of one caballeria), approximately.....	1,050.00
Total.....	$1,923.75

The average price, at the current rates, of the fruit is 15 cents per bunch, or $2,210.00 for 7,000 bunches.

SECOND YEAR.

Inasmuch as there is no clearing or other work to be done during the second year, with the exception of the cost of cultivation and cutting and hauling to the nearest port of shipment, the charges are reduced to about $1,250.00 per caballeria ; the proceeds being the same as during the first year, or, in other words, $2,210.

Regarding the cultivation of the other varieties of bananas produced in Cuba, such as those known as Macho (male), Hembra (female), Manzano, &c., the cost of cultivation can be said to be same as that of the "Guineo"; but the results may be said to exceed those of the aforementioned "Guineo" the yield being larger and the prices better, especially when planted in good soil, which soil is abundantly found in all the provinces of the Island, and is located near the markets for said fruit.

Value of the Lands.

The value of the lands vary according to location and quality. For example, in the municipal terms of San Luis, San Juan and others in the province of Pinar del Rio, where the best tobacco is grown, the price of one caballeria of land (33.1633 acres) is from $1,500 to $2,000. But there are certain localities in the same province where the value of land, owing to its exceptionally favorable conditions for tobacco-growing, is extraordinarily high.

The irrigated lands of the municipal term of Guines, province of Havana, which yield abundant crops of vegetables of all kinds, corn, &c., are worth from $1,500 to $2,000 per caballeria.

The price of land, suitable for agricultural purposes in the other provinces, depends upon their proximity to manufacturing centers, railroads, seaports, and varies from $500 to $1,000 per caballeria.

Aside from this, land can be bought in certain parts of the provinces of Puerto Principe, Santiago de Cuba, Santa Clara, and even in the western part of the north coast of the province of Pinar del Rio, at $100 per caballeria, and even at a lower figure if bought in large lots.

Manner of Buying and Selling Farm Property.

In buying and selling farm property, the first requisite is the searching of the title; should the document prove satisfactorily the seller's right to the property, and is correct in every way, the recorder of titles of the locality wherein are registered said lands is asked for a certificate showing what mortgages, if any, exist upon the property; upon receipt of the said certificate showing if the land is encumbered or free, the buyer proceeds to consummate the deal, either cancelling the mortgage or mortgages, if any exist, or continue to carry it himself, as the case may be. The buyer and seller then appear before a notary public, which person is the proper one to extend the deed; after which the instrument is taken to the treasurer's office for the purpose of paying the fiscal fees on the transfer of the property, after which it is taken to the office of the recorder of deeds for registry in the name of the new owner.

The fiscal fee amounts to 1 per cent of the amount of the sale; the notary public's fees for issuing the corresponding deed of sale is 0.8 per cent on said amount, and the recording fees vary according to value of the estate, by virtue of the tariff of the law on mortgages in force.

Besides the above charges, the only ones that should be paid are those contracted by the office of the recorder of deeds, the certificate showing whether or not the property is encumbered.

The fees to be paid are also embodied in the aforementioned tariff and depend upon the number of entries examined by the recorder.

It should be borne in mind that the proceedings mentioned above are those usually gone through in transactions of buying and selling farm property already laid out and surveyed, such as are nearly all those situated in the provinces of Havana, Matanzas and Pinar del Rio; but there are a great many in the provinces of Santiago de Cuba, Puerto Principe and Santa Clara, known as "Haciendas Comuneras," which estates, not yet being marked out or surveyed and owned jointly by several parties, in proportion to the amount of capital invested by each, which it is impossible to secure without the services of persons well versed in the matter, owing to complicated methods necessary to acquiring same.

Taxes.

The territorial contribution or leviable income of rural property will not exceed the following:

"Eight per cent on sugar plantations to manufacture sugar and working as such.

"Six per cent on plantations devoted to the cultivation of sugar-cane, tobacco, or to various other products at the same time, in an industrial sense.

"The other rural properties will be taxed according to the following rates :

"Six per cent on those situated on the present judicial circuits of Havana, Guanabacoa and Marianao.

"Four per cent on those located in the rest of the province of Havana, less than four leagues distant from the capital of the province, and the cities of Cardenas, Sagua la Grande, Cienfuegos and Manzanillo.

"Two per cent on those in the remainder of the Island."

Industries.

The industries of this country, aside from the manufacture of sugar and tobacco-raising, are not of great importance, nevertheless there is a certain sign of progress noticeable that argues well for the future.

In fact, the manufacture of cement, pottery, beer, liquors, chocolates, vermicelli, shoes, ice, perfumery, &c., is progressing and gaining in importance daily. In addition to these industries, we have at present in Havana a rope and cordage factory, perfectly equipped, and which is of great benefit to the country, as the following data will show :

The proprietors of the factory are Messrs. Heydrich, Raffloer & Co., of Germany. The building has a frontage on the sea to facilitate the unloading of the raw material, and the subsequent transportation of same to the warehouses by means of fixed rails. The factory has an excellent plant for the manufacture of the finest cord to the thickest hawser.

It contains two steam engines and dynamos, a repair shop, boilers, warehouses with a capacity of 5000 bales of hemp and over.

The factory has an output of 16,000 lbs. daily of cordage and ropes, and employs 120 men and women. With the new machinery being installed, the production will be 20,000 lbs. daily.

Out of 6830 bales of hemp imported from Yucatan, Mexico, into the island of Cuba during the year 1900, 6155 bales, weighing 2,127,793 lbs., were used by this company; the balance was distributed amongst other concerns devoted to the same line of business.

At present there are several firms engaged in the cultivation of hemp and the manufacture of the fibre, but, owing to the development of this industry reached amongst us, the supply cannot meet the demand, owing to the insufficient number of plantations existing devoted to the cultivation of said fibre.

The principal places where the hemp is grown are as follows: Cayo Romano (province of Puerto Principe), worked by a French company, and whose representatives here are Messrs. Bridat, Mont' Ros & Co. They have 30 caballerias of land (994.9 acres) planted with hemp, but owing to the years said lands have been neglected, it is not rendering the results it should.

Last year the total production barely reached 480 bales, or 180,000 lbs.

In the judicial circuit of Cardenas, Mr. C. J. Madden has some four caballerias under cultivation, quite close to the city, and, although he has worked faithfully, they only yield him from 150,000 to 200,000 lbs. annually.

Mr. Bernabe Sanchez has about 10 caballerias of land in the judicial circuit of Nuevitas planted with hemp. A company has been organized, known as "The Nuevitas Fibre Company," for the purpose of working Mr. Sanchez's hemp, together with that existing in the neighborhood.

In the judicial circuits of San Miguel del Padron, Bainoa and Cienfuegos there was also under cultivation in the same textile plant some twelve caballerias, but they are abandoned by their owners and consequently yield nothing.

As may be seen from the above data, the product of the entire Island for one year of this fibre would not supply the wants of Messrs. Heydrichs, Raffloer & Company's factory for a single month, thereby making it indispensable to import it.

These data alone should be of sufficient stimulus to the planters of Cuba to cause them to devote their attention to the cultivation of the aforementioned textile plant, the more so when it is considered that the raising of same is easy and of comparatively small cost, and it can be cultivated in any soil, even that useless for any other purpose.

From all the preceding data, it has been demonstrated that there exist in the Island of Cuba such vast sources of wealth that it only awaits the influx of capital and labor to acquire for its agriculture, industries and commerce that high degree of development to which they are entitled owing to the favorable condition of that country; and that the small capitalist, as well as the large, backed with the necessary acumen and energy, will find the field amply large and can be assured that success will crown his efforts.

GERMAN SUGAR PRODUCTION AND THE CARTEL.

U. S. Consul General Frank H. Mason, writing from Berlin under date of December 17, 1901, reports to the Department of State that: "The general feeling of uncertainty and anxiety about the future of the beet-sugar industry in Europe seems to grow with the progress of the season's campaign.

"The latest official estimate shows that, exclusive of Denmark, the sugar-growing countries of Europe will produce this year 5,928,150 tons of raw sugar, an increase of 262,850 tons over the already enormous product of last year. Of this vast output, Germany will, it is estimated, yield 2,073,100 tons, against 1,974,800 tons during the last preceding campaign.

"On the 7th of December, a high commercial authority estimated the visible supply of raw sugar now in the principal European markets at 1,640,813 tons, against 1,297,525 tons on the same date in 1900, and 1,249,772 tons in 1899. Adding to these the visible stock of raw sugars in the United States and Cuba on the 4th of December, there is found to be in sight 1,825,921 tons against 1,407,783 tons on the same date last year and 1,554,790 tons in 1899.

"Under these conditions, and in view of the growing production of sugar in the United States, Cuba, Porto Rico, and Hawaii, prices of raw sugar in the German market have sunk until the condition of the whole producing interest would be desperate were it not for the "Cartel," or secret working combination between raw-sugar factories and refineries, by which high prices are maintained for all sugar consumed in Germany, the profits from which, added to the Government bounty paid on exports, enable the factories to pay a proportionately high rate for beets, and at the same time sell their exported product in foreign markets at prices with which other nations find it difficult to compete, and which, in effect, give the German producer a commanding position in the world's sugar market.

"The cartel, or syndicate of sugar producers and refiners, about which much speculation, more or less inaccurate, has been published recently in the English newspapers, was organized something more than a year ago, and, according to a statement which appeared at that time, includes about 95 per cent of the sugar-producing interests in Germany. Its management is secret and somewhat difficult to study, except through the medium of results, but in general terms it may be stated that the cartel guarantees producers of raw sugar a certain minimum price and takes their entire product. Any difference between this minimum and a lower price which may rule in the world's markets is made up by the refiners. On the other hand, the raw-sugar producers guarantee to pay a fixed minimum price for beets, to produce no raw sugar for consumption in Germany, and to sell their raw sugar only to refineries belonging to the syndicate. Among the results of this clever scheme two may be cited which will explain the present situation, viz.: On the one hand, the factories are able to pay for beets about 75 cents per ton more than the general market price outside of Germany would justify, and, on the other, refineries are able to control, absolutely, the price of sugar for consumption in Germany, and this they do so effectively that ordinary white lump sugar costs to-day at any grocery store in Berlin 30 to 35 pfennigs ($7\frac{1}{2}$ to $8\frac{3}{4}$ cents) per pound, or nearly three times what is charged for the same grade of German-made sugar in London, and this at a moment when Germany has just harvested the largest beet-sugar crop in her history, and when industrial depression and diminished wages render high prices for any food material especially burdensome to the people.

"So oppressive have become the exactions of the cartel that the Associated German Chocolate Manufacturers took steps early in September, this year, to organize at Genthin, in Brandenburg, a scheme for the erection of a factory capable of working up daily 15,000 centners of beets, the product of which is to be used in their business. This break for independence by a union of heavy consumers of sugar has caused some agitation on the part of the cartel, whose organ warns the chocolate makers of the results of such insubordination; but, according to definite press reports, the latter have gone on making ten-year contracts for beets with the farmers of a large region, and will have their factory and refinery in readiness for the campaign of next year.

"Meanwhile, several meetings have been held to discuss plans for reducing the area of beet culture and to consider what will be the effect on German sugar interests should the pending international conference at Brussels vote to abolish export bounties, a result which no one familiar with the situation expects to be realized any more than it was in 1898. France then refused to give up her bounty system, and, it is thought, will this year be sustained by Russia in opposing any serious change in existing laws.

"Equally unpromising is the outlook for any important and systematic reduction in the area of beet culture next year. The simple fact is that under the management of the cartel farmers receive for their beets a price considerably higher than is justified by the value of sugar in the world's markets, and consequently sugar beets are about the only crop left to German farmers that is largely profitable. While they will meet and talk and adopt resolutions against overproduction, they are aware that any action which they may take to that end will be abortive for Germany unless France, Russia, and Austria-Hungary, to say nothing of Belgium, Holland, and Sweden, will join in the agreement, and this they have manifested no disposition to do. The public press reports are probably correct when they describe the proceedings at the meetings for reduction of area as showing that every beet farmer and factory manager seems anxious to persuade every one else to restrict his area of beet culture for next year, but has no serious intention to do so himself.

"Meanwhile, the principal lesson which American sugar growers have left to study in this country is the intelligent utilization of the two principal waste products of beet-sugar manufacture—the spent pulp and the crude molasses—which latter contains usually from 40 to 50 per cent. of sugar that cannot be crystalized out on account of the potash salts which the crude sirup contains.

"In the early years of German beet culture the utilization of these secondary products attracted relatively small attention. Agricultural science was busy with the task of improving the quality of the beet itself, increasing the percentage of saccharine elements in the pulp and augmenting the yield of beets per hectare. It was soon discovered that the spent pulp from the sugar factories was a most valuable food for cattle; that by drying it, it could be preserved for use throughout the winter; and that by adding to the dried pulp the waste molasses, the feed was not only rendered more palatable for animals, but, being fed on the farm, the potash of the sirup was retained on the premises and restored to the land in the form of stable leachings and manure.

"For a number of years waste beet molasses in this country was either exported to France or Spain or was used here as a raw material for the manufacture of alcohol, the potash salts being in that case recovered and restored to the land as a separate chemical fertilizer. But the internal revenue laws of Germany are so shaped as to favor the production of alcohol on a large scale and at a small cost from potatoes, so that the spirit manufacture from beet molasses was gradually abandoned and the waste sirup used for feed. Germany is a country with limited grazing facilities; vast quantities of corn are imported as food for animals, and every kind of nutriment for cattle, horses, or swine is costly, when compared with the prices of similar materials in the United States. For this reason, principally, the home production of meat in this country is, and will probably remain, far behind the needs of the people. Spent beet pulp enriched with waste molasses helped, therefore, to meet a pressing want, and the crude sirup is now worth for this purpose 4.75 to 4.80 marks ($1.13 to $1.14) per 100 kilograms (220 pounds) in car-load lots.

"That similar conditions will obtain in the United States, where pasture, hay, corn, and all forms of food for animals are abundant and cheap, is hardly probable. But the beet-sugar producers in our country should start out with the idea that nothing that comes from the land should be wasted or prevented from sooner or later returning to it. It may be long before the rich virgin soil of American beet farms will be reduced to the condition of the worn fields of Europe, where the strictest balance must be maintained between the chemical elements harvested in a crop and returned to it by skillful rotation of cultures and scientific fertilization. But our country has as yet no native potash minerals, and if our growing beet-sugar industry is to make the most of its advantages and opportunities, it cannot afford to neglect the scientific methods which has been found most effective in Europe in conserving to the utmost practical degree the strength and vitality of the soil."

SUGAR PRODUCTION IN EUROPE.

(From Report of U. S. Consul H. W. Diederich to the Department of State.

The International Union for Sugar Statistics † has just published the following results of its investigation, made in December, 1901, as to this year's beet-sugar crop in European countries. While these figures still are approximate estimates, they are considered to be as nearly correct as can be made before the final estimates are prepared at the end of the season:

* December estimate.

† NOTE BY THE CONSUL.—The International Union is a combination of manufacturers of sugar in all European countries. In October, every sugar factory sends to the headquarters of this union all the information obtained during a certain week as to the amount and condition of the beets, sugar contents, sugar produced, etc. This is done again during a certain week in December, when the season is practically over. It will be seen that this system of collecting sugar statistics is almost perfect, and that its results must be reliable.

"There will be apparently an overproduction of sugar in Europe, amounting to 1,000,000 tons in excess of the normal consumption, and the stock to be carried over to next season may be 1,500,000 tons. Of course, the effect of this is unprecedentedly low prices. In December, raw sugar was quoted at the Magdeburg exchange at 1.62 cents per pound. It would seem that the unprofitable business would check overproduction, but the entire beet-sugar industry of Europe is on an artificial basis.

"Considerable anxiety is felt here as to the tariff the United States Congress will put on Cuban sugar.

"As early as 1893, Cuba produced not less than 1,160,172 tons of sugar, which is about one-half the amount consumed by the people of the United States to-day. The troublous times of war reduced its sugar crop to 281,420 tons in 1899, but it has risen in the face of financial difficulties to almost treble that quantity within two years, and at the end of another year it is possible it may again reach 1,000,000 tons. With plenty of capital and labor, and with improved machinery, there is every reason for the Germans to fear that Cuba will become the largest producer of sugar in the world."

BEET-SUGAR INDUSTRY OF DENMARK.

Consul Freeman, of Copenhagen, under date of December 23, 1901, sends the following data to the Department of State relating to the beet-sugar industry of Denmark for the year 1900-1901:

"All beet-sugar factories in Denmark are under one management, except that at Nykoping, Falster, which is a co-operative factory; but as it sells all its product to the greater company, the beet-sugar producers of Denmark are united as far as the market is concerned. The acreage under beet-root cultivation during the year was 30,000 acres, producing 398,000 tons of beets, or about 13 tons per acre. The total receipts for the year were 3,271,249 kroner ($876,695), and the bonus to beet growers amounted to $148,606."

SUMMARY.

COMMERCE OF THE ISLAND OF CUBA.

IMPORTS AND EXPORTS OF MERCHANDISE, AUGUST, 1901.

[NOTE.—Beginning July 1, 1900, the statistical reports to the Division of Insular Affairs were based upon a new schedule, giving the classification of commodities imported and exported much more in detail than were required by the schedule in effect prior to that date. Owing to this change and to the further addition on July 1, 1901, of twenty-two commodities, it is impossible to make comparison by articles and countries in some instances.]

† Apparent loss in exports to United States is accounted for from the fact that during the first nine months of 1899, about $7,000,000 of tobacco and cigars destined for United Kingdom were shipped via New York and reported to this Division as exports to the United States, the countries of ultimate destination not being given.

OF

COMMERCE OF THE ISLAND OF CUBA.

SEPTEMBER, 1901.

PREPARED IN

DIVISION OF INSULAR AFFAIRS,

WAR DEPARTMENT.

EXPLANATION OF REGULAR STATISTICAL TABLES.

General imports.—The regular statement of imports of merchandise, by articles and countries, in this publication is what is termed the statement of general imports, embracing imported articles entered for immediate consumption on arrival and articles entered for warehouse.

The term “entry for consumption” is the technical name of the import entry made at the custom-house, and does not imply that the goods have been actually consumed, but simply that they have been delivered into the custody of the importer and that the duties on the dutiable portion have been paid.

The values of articles imported are governed by the regulations in effect May 1, 1899, which prescribe that the values of imported merchandise subject to duty shall be “the actual market value or wholesale price of such merchandise as bought and sold in usual wholesale quantities at the time of exportation in the principal markets of the country from whence imported, and in the condition in which such merchandise is there bought for exportation or consigned for sale, including the value of all cartons, cases, crates, boxes, sacks, and coverings of any kind, and all other costs, charges, and expenses incident to placing the merchandise in condition ready for shipment.”

Domestic exports.—The regular statement of domestic exports, by articles and countries, in this publication exhibits the exports of domestic products or manufactures, also exports of commodities of foreign origin which have been changed from the form in which they were imported or enhanced in value by further manufacture.

The value of exports of domestic merchandise is their value at the time of exportation in the ports of the island whence they are exported.

Tonnage tables.—In the tables of tonnage movement the tonnage is stated in net tons of 100 cubic feet carrying space after the prescribed allowances are made for crew space, engine space, etc.

Weights.—In all tables published the ton weight is 2,240 pounds and the hundredweight is 112 pounds, unless indicated otherwise.

Customs districts.—Statements of imports, exports, and tonnage movement are shown by customs districts, which have a certain prescribed limit of territory with a port of entry.

VITAL STATISTICS OF THE CITY OF HAVANA FOR THE CALENDAR YEAR, 1901.

[From the Report of Major W. C. Gorgas, Chief Sanitary Officer.]

A steady and general improvement is shown in the sanitary conditions of the city, but the great work done this year by the Sanitary Department has been the extirpation of yellow fever from Havana, and it is believed that this has been due to measures, for the first time adopted and carried out here, based upon certain scientific facts established by the Army Board, of which Major Reed was President.

If the belief is correct that, by measures taken for killing infected mosquitoes, Havana has been rid of yellow fever in a few months, when it had been epidemic in the city for the past 200 years, it is of vast importance that these facts should be made known to the world as extensively and rapidly as possible, and this is particularly true with regard to the United States. For it may happen that during the coming summer yellow fever might be introduced into our Southern States, and if it could be controlled as it has been in Havana during the past year, it would save many lives and prevent inconvenience and financial loss to the States so affected. The above reasons are sufficient for dwelling so much on this one topic.

To make clear the claim that Havana has been purged from yellow fever during the past year by the destruction of infected mosquitoes, the history of Havana with regard to yellow fever during the past 100 years, should be considered. During that period yellow fever has always been epidemic in Havana, up to 1901. Sanitary measures, which had reduced the excessive death rate of Havana to that of healthy cities of civilized countries had had little or no effect upon yellow fever. General disinfection as carried out for other infectious and contagious diseases had been most extensively and faithfully tried. Yellow fever had suddenly and sharply disappeared upon the introduction of a system whose object was killing infected mosquitoes, based upon the theory that the Stegomyia mosquito is the only means of transmitting yellow fever. From the 28th of September to February 15th, there has not been a single case of yellow fever in Havana, a condition of affairs so unusual that all question of chance can be dropped from consideration. During the past 45 years, with scarcely an exception, some deaths have occurred from yellow fever in every month of the year, the maximum—2058 deaths—occurred in 1857; the minimum, 51 deaths occurred in 1866; average, 751.44. For the year 1901, in which the new system was adopted, there occurred only 18 deaths, and 12 of these deaths occurred before the new system was put into effect. Definite data is in existence warranting the belief that it has been epidemic in Havana since the English occupation in 1762.

The general sanitary methods adopted by the American Administration upon its occupation in January, 1899, had a rapid effect in reducing the general mortality. In 1898, the last year of Spanish occupation, Havana had 21,252 deaths; in 1899 the first year of American occupation, 8,153 deaths; the next year, 1900, 6,102 deaths and 1901, 5,720 deaths, which would be a small number of deaths for cities of similar size in any civilized country. This is a much smaller number of deaths than had ever occurred for a year in Havana before. For the past 31 years the maximum death rate occurred in 1898 when it was 91.03; the minimum in 1885, 29.30; average, 41.55. This year we have 22.11.

The data above given would indicate that the hygienic conditions of Havana at the end of 1899 were better, by far, than had ever been before, but when we consider the facts as to yellow fever, our conclusions will be very different as to that disease.

From the figures above given it will be seen that there has always been a considerable number of deaths from yellow fever in Havana every year.

In 1898, on account of the Spanish war, there was very little immigration to the city and therefore there were few non-immunes to contract yellow fever. During this year there were only 136 deaths from the disease.

The next year, 1899, there was little or no immigration during the first six months, consequently few non-immunes and there were only 5 deaths. During the last six months of that year, over 12,000 immigrants came, and 98 deaths from yellow fever occurred. The winter epidemic for 1899 was unusually severe. The next year, 1900, there were 310 deaths from yellow fever. This demonstrates that the general sanitary measures had had a marked effect upon the general death rate, but very little upon the death rate for yellow fever. Neither labor nor expense was spared. The floors and walls of the room occupied by the patient were washed down with a solution of bichloride, applied with a force pump; then the room was carefully sealed and filled with formaline gas. All the fabrics were taken to the disinfecting plant and passed through a steam sterilizer. Every case was carefully isolated, and the quarantine enforced by an employee of the Sanitary Department, who was on guard at the room quarantined. Three men in 8-hour shifts were assigned as guards in each case.

By the end of 1900, the authorities were convinced that general sanitary methods could not in a short time eradicate yellow fever from Havana. In the smaller cities and military camps, entire success had resulted from the deportation of the non-immune population, together with general sanitary methods; but in a city the size of Havana, with a non-immune population of between 30,000 and 40,000, such a measure was entirely impracticable.

At the beginning of 1901, the prospects as far as yellow fever in Havana was concerned, were very unfavorable; there was a large non-immune population, probably larger than it had ever been before. The city was thoroughly infected, cases having occurred in all parts. During the preceding year there had been 1,244 cases and 210 deaths, and all classes of non-immune had suffered severely. On the staff of the Military Governor, the Chief Commissary, the Chief Quartermaster and one of the Aides had died.

January commenced with an unusually large number of deaths from this disease, the records showing 24 cases and 7 deaths; February was equally severe, 8 cases and 5 deaths occurring during that month.

The Military Governor being determined that no precautions should be omitted, directed that in addition to former measures, work be started on the line that the mosquito was the cause of the transmission of this disease. This work went into effect about the first of March with the result that during the whole year there occurred only 18 deaths from yellow fever, and 12 of these deaths before the mosquito measures were started.

Estimating the yellow fever year as commencing April 1st, it is shown that for the past 11 years the maximum, 1,385 deaths, occurred in 1896-97; the minimum, 122 deaths, in 1899-1900; average, 467. For the year 1901-2, up to February 15th, there were 5 deaths. This difference is too marked to be any matter of chance. That the yellow fever year of 1901-2 had only 1-25th the number of deaths that had occurred in the minimum year of the preceding 11 years, must be due to some cause that did not act during those years. Still more marked is the fact that since Sept. 28th, 1901, no cases at all have occurred, particularly when it is considered that October and November rank among the worst months for yellow fever.

Not only was this result obtained with the city full of non-immunes, but there were half a dozen infected towns in railroad communication with Havana. Constant intercourse was kept up and no interference with commerce occurred. Goods of all kinds were allowed to come into the city freely. No restriction was put upon bringing in clothing, bedding and so on from those infected points. The only infected material from the towns looked after, was the sick man, who was carefully sought out and screened from mosquitoes.

The number of other infectious and contagious diseases have been small during the year. There has been very little diphtheria and typhoid fever, and the tuberculosis rate is about that of most cities of civilized countries. A rapid decrease has taken place since American occupation. A marked decrease in malaria has also occurred since the mosquito work began.

It is also interesting to note the small birth rate and the large death rate of the negro population as compared with the white. In Havana, the negro is not only not as well suited to his environment as the white man, but would disappear in a few years unless recruited from without.

This is probably the last annual report that will be made by a United States Army Officer as Health Officer of Havana, and some of the differences between "the then" and "the now" should not be lost sight of.

The Army took charge of the Health Department of Havana when deaths were occurring at the rate of 21,252 per year. It gives it up with deaths occurring at the rate of 5,720 per year. It took charge with smallpox epidemic for years. It gives it up with not a single case having occurred in the city for 18 months. It took charge with yellow fever epidemic for two centuries, the relentless foe of every foreigner who came within Havana's borders—which he could not escape, and from whose attack he well knew that every fourth man must die. It found Havana feared as a thing unclean by all her neighbors of the United States, and quarantined against as too dangerous to touch, or even to come near anything that she had touched, to the untold financial loss of both Havana and the United States. It leaves, after careful study of the question of yellow fever by its Officers, undeterred by personal risk—for several of the investigators have died of the disease, contracted at their work. It has established the fact that yellow fever is only transmitted by a certain species of mosquito, a discovery that, in its power for saving human life, is only excelled by Jenner's great discovery, and as time goes on, it will stand in the same class as that great boon to mankind.

The Army has stamped out this disease in its greatest stronghold—there having been only 5 deaths in the last 9 months of the past year and no deaths and no cases during the last three months of the same year; and it has demonstrated a system by which yellow fever can certainly be controlled, without interference to commerce.

BRUSSELS SUGAR CONVENTION.

Minister Townsend transmits to the Department of State, from Brussels, March 6, 1902, the following translation of the sugar convention signed March 5:

I—Convention Concerning the Sugar Regime.

His Majesty the Emperor of Germany, King of Prussia, in the name of the German Empire; His Majesty the Emperor of Austria, King of Bohemia, etc., and Apostolic King of Hungary; His Majesty the King of the Belgians; His Majesty the King of Spain and, in his name, Her Majesty the Queen Regent of the Kingdom; the President of the French Republic; His Majesty the King of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland and the British Possession beyond the Seas, Emperor of India; His Majesty the King of Italy; Her Majesty the Queen of the Netherlands; His Majesty the King of Sweden and Norway—

Desiring, on one hand, to equalize the conditions of competition between beet and cane sugars from different sources and, on the other hand, to promote the development of the consumption of sugar;

Considering that this double result can only be attained by the suppression of bounties as well as by limiting the surtax;

Have resolved to conclude a convention to this end, and have nominated their plenipotentiaries as follows, to-wit:

His Majesty the Emperor of Germany, King of Prussia, in the name of the German Empire:

Count de Wilwitz, his Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary to His Majesty the King of the Belgians; etc.

ARTICLE 1.

The high contracting parties bind themselves, from the date the present convention comes into force, to suppress the direct and indirect bounties by which the production or export of sugar may benefit, and they agree not to establish bounties of this kind during the whole duration of the said convention. In view of the execution of this provision, sweetmeats, chocolates, biscuits, condensed milk, and all other analogous products, which contain in a notable proportion sugar artificially incorporated, are to be classed as sugar.

The above paragraph applies to all advantages resulting directly or indirectly, for the different categories of producers, from the fiscal legislation of the States, notably:

- (a) The direct bounties granted to exports.
- (b) The direct bounties granted to production.
- (c) The total or partial exemptions from taxation granted for a part of the manufactured output.
- (d) The profits derived from surplusages of output.
- (e) The profits derived from the exaggeration of the drawback.
- (f) The advantages derived from any surtax in excess of the rate fixed by article 3.

ARTICLE 2.

The high contracting parties bind themselves to submit to bond regime the sugar factories and refineries, as well as those factories in which sugar is extracted from the molasses, in order that they shall be under the permanent surveillance, day and night, of the customs employees.

With this object, factories will be arranged in such a way as to prevent the taking away of sugar clandestinely, and the customs employees will have the right to enter every department of the factories.

Books of control in regard to any or several phases of production will be kept, and the manufactured sugars will be deposited in such special buildings as will afford every desirable guaranty of security.

ARTICLE 3.

The high contracting parties bind themselves to limit the surtax to a maximum of 6 francs per 100 kilograms ($1.15 per 220 pounds) for the refined sugar and the sugars assimilable thereto, and 5.50 francs ($1.06) for other sugars—that is to say, the difference between the rate of duty or taxation to which foreign sugars are subjected and that imposed on the home product.

This provision is not to be applied to the rates of import duties in the case of countries that do not produce sugar; nor to the by-products of the manufacturing or refining of sugar.

ARTICLE 4.

The high contracting parties bind themselves to impose a special duty on imports into their respective territories of sugars from countries that grant bounties for production or exports.

This duty shall not be less than the amount of the bounties, direct or indirect, granted in the country of origin. The high parties reserve to themselves the privilege, each as it may affect its own interests, to prohibit the importation of bounty-fed sugars.

For the estimation of the sum of advantages derived eventually from the surtax specified under section f of article 1, the rate fixed by article 3 is deducted from the amount of this surtax; half of the difference is held to represent the bounty, the permanent commission organized under article 7 being entitled, at the request of one of the contracting States, to alter the rate so provided for.

ARTICLE 5.

The high contracting parties bind themselves reciprocally to admit at the lowest of their respective import rates sugars imported from any of the contracting States or from any colonies or possessions of said States that do not grant bounties and to which the obligations imposed in article 8 apply.

Cane and beet sugars cannot be subjected to different rates of duty.

ARTICLE 6.

Spain, Italy, and Sweden are not held to the obligation imposed in articles 1, 2, and 3 so long as they do not export sugar.

These States bind themselves to adapt their sugar legislation to the provisions of the convention—within one year, or earlier if possible—from the time that the permanent commission has verified that the above condition has ceased to exist.

ARTICLE 7.

The high contracting parties agree to create a permanent commission, having charge of the surveillance of the execution of the provisions of the present convention.

This commission shall be composed of delegates of the different contracting States, and to it will be attached a permanent bureau. The commission elects its president; it will sit at Brussels, and shall meet on the call of the president.

The duties of the delegates will be:

- (a) To verify whether, in the contracting States, any direct or indirect bounty for the production of export of sugars is granted.
- (b) To verify whether the States named in article 6 continue to conform themselves to the provisions of this article.
- (c) To verify the existence of bounties in the monsignatory states, and to estimate the amount of such bounties with a view to applying the provisions of article 4.
- (d) To issue an advice on litigious questions.
- (e) To examine the requests for admission to the union from states which have not participated in the present convention.

To the permanent bureau is intrusted the compilation, translation, coordination, and publication of information of all kinds relating to the legislation and statistics of sugars, not only in the contracting States, but also in other states.

To secure the execution of the above provisions, the high contracting parties shall communicate, through the diplomatic channel, to the Belgian Government, which will transmit them to the commission, copies of the laws, decrees, and regulations relating to the taxation on sugars that are or may be in operation in their respective countries, as well as statistical information relating to the object of the present convention.

Each of the high parties is entitled to be represented on the commission by a delegate or by a delegate and associate delegates.

Austria and Hungary shall be considered separately as contracting parties.

The first meeting of the commission shall take place at Brussels, on the call of the Belgian Government, at least three months before the present convention comes into force.

The duties of the commission shall be confined to verification and examination. It will make a report to the Belgian Government on all questions submitted to it. Said report will be communicated to the interested States by the Belgian Government, and the latter shall, if requested so to do by any of the high contracting parties, promote a meeting of a conference which shall decide on the resolutions or the measures necessary under the circumstances.

The verifications and estimations, however, under section b and c, shall have a binding character for the contracting States; they shall be established by a vote of the majority, each contracting State disposing of one vote, and they shall come into effect, at the farthest, at the expiration of a period of two months.

In case one of the contracting States were to appeal from the decision of the commission, it shall have to promote, within eight days after the notification of the said decision, a new deliberation of the commission; the latter shall meet under urgent call and shall decide definitely within a period of one month from the date of the appeal.

The new decision shall be executory, at the latest two months after its date. The same proceedings to be followed in regard to the examination of requests for admission under the provisions of sections e.

The expenses arising from the organization of the permanent commission—except the salary and the compensations of the delegates, which are to be paid by their respective countries—shall be borne by all the contracting States and shall be assessed among them according to a method to be decided upon by the commission.

ARTICLE 8.

The high contracting parties bind themselves on their behalf and on behalf of their colonies and possessions, exception being made in the case of the autonomous colonies of Great Britain and British West Indies, to resort to the measures necessary to prevent bounty-fed sugar which has passed through the territory of a contracting State from having the same advantages as those accruing under the convention on the market they are destined for. The permanent commission shall present in this connection the necessary propositions.

ARTICLE 9.

The States that have taken part in the present convention shall be admitted to adhere thereto upon request and after a favorable report of the permanent commission.

The request shall be addressed through the diplomatic channels to the Belgian Government, which will take charge eventually of notifying the adhesion to all the other Governments. The adhesion shall involve, in full right, the accession to all charges and the admission to all advantages enumerated in the present convention, and it shall enter into force from the 1st of September following the transmission of the notification by the Belgian Government to the other contracting States.

ARTICLE 10.

The present convention shall come into force from September 1, 1903.

It shall remain in force during five years from this date, and if none of the high contracting parties shall have notified the Belgian Government twelve months after the expiration of the said period of five years of its intention to have its effects ceased it shall continue for one year, and so on from year to year.

In case one of the contracting States were to denounce the convention, this denunciation shall take effect only as it may affect its own interests; the other States would retain, until the 31st of October of the year of the denunciation, the privilege of notifying their intention to also retire on September 1 of the following year. If one of the latter intended to make use of this privilege, the Belgian Government is to promote a meeting at Brussels, within three months, of a conference which would have to determine the measures to be resorted to.

ARTICLE 11.

The provisions of the present convention shall apply to the provinces beyond the seas, colonies, and foreign possessions of the high contracting parties. The colonies and possessions of Great Britain and the Netherlands, however, are not to be included in this regulation, except as far as it is provided in articles 5 and 8.

The status of the colonies and possessions of Great Britain and the Netherlands is, moreover, defined by the declarations inserted in the final protocol.

ARTICLE 12.

The execution of the reciprocal engagements contained in the present convention is subjected, inasmuch as need be, to the performance of the formalities and rules established by the constitutional laws of each of the contracting States.

The present convention shall be ratified and ratifications thereof shall be deposited at Brussels, at the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, on February 1, 1903, or earlier, if possible.

It is understood that the present convention shall only become binding after it has been ratified at least by the contracting States that have not been affected by the exceptional provision of article 6. In case one or several of the said States have not deposited their ratifications within the time provided for, the Belgian Government shall immediately endeavor to obtain a decision from the other signatory States as to the entering into force of the present convention among themselves.

In faith of which the respective plenipotentiaries have signed the present convention.

Done at Brussels, in one single copy, the 5th day of March, 1902.

II—Final Protocol.

At the moment of proceeding to the signature of the convention relating to the regime of sugars, entered into on this date by the Governments of Germany, Austria and Hungary, Belgium, Spain, France, Great Britain, Italy, the Netherlands, and Sweden, the plenipotentiaries have agreed to the following:

TO ARTICLE 3.

Considering that the purpose of a surtax is to protect efficaciously the internal market of producing countries, the high contracting parties reserve the right, each as it affects its own interests, to propose the increase of the surtax in case that considerable quantities of sugars from one of the contracting States should enter their countries; this increase to affect only the sugars coming from that State.

This proposition shall be addressed to the permanent commission, which will decide within a short delay, by a vote of the majority, upon the true foundation of the proposed measure, upon the duration of its application, and upon the rate of the increased tax; the latter not to exceed 1 franc per 100 kilograms (19 cents per 220 pounds.)

The adhesion of the commission can only be given in case the invasion of the market in question should be the result of an economical condition of real inferiority, and not the result of a factitious increase of prices promoted by an understanding among producers.

TO ARTICLE 2.

A.—(1) The Government of Great Britain declares that no direct or indirect bounty shall be granted to sugars from colonies of the Crown during the existence of the convention.

(2) It declares also, by exceptional measure and while still reserving, in principle, its entire free action concerning the fiscal relations between the United Kingdom and its colonies and possessions, that during the existence of the convention no preference shall be granted in the United Kingdom to colonial sugars vis-a-vis the sugars coming from the contracting States.

(3) It declares that they will submit the convention to the autonomous colonies and to the West Indies in order that the latter may have the privilege of giving their adhesion thereto.

It is understood that the Government of His Britannic Majesty shall have the right to adhere to the convention in the name of the Crown colonies.

B.—The Government of the Netherlands declares that during the existence of the convention no bounty, either direct or indirect, shall be granted to sugars of the Dutch colonies, and that these sugars shall not be admitted into the Netherlands at a less rate than is applied to sugars coming from the contracting States.

The present final protocol, which shall be ratified at the same time as the convention concluded this date, shall be considered as an integral part of said convention and shall be of the same force, value, and duration.

In faith of which the plenipotentiaries have drafted the present protocol.

Done at Brussels, the 5th day of March, 1902.

WILL BUY SUGAR LAND.

[From the Havana Post.]

An American syndicate has just purchased two large farms located in the district of Guines, province of Havana, at about thirty miles from this city, on which they contemplate to carry on an extensive cattle breeding industry; owing to this good pastures abundant waters and its proximity to the capital, the district of Guines is one of the most convenient for cattle breeding on the whole island.

A Louisiana planter has also come over to Cuba with the purpose of securing a large piece of land on which to grow rice.

The representative of an American syndicate has recently made proposals for the purchase of the sugar plantation "Santa Ana," which is located in the vicinity of Sagua la Grande, and which they contemplate to convert into a large central factory, provided that the United States government grants Cuba the tariff concessions which she requests.

In case aforesaid project should be carried into effect, the totality of the old apparatus and machinery would be removed and new ones, of the most modern and perfected pattern would be immediately ordered from the United States and mounted in their stead.

The representative of the syndicate and the experts he took with him to examine the premises, unanimously declare that no better site than the one the plantation is located on could be found on the island for the establishment of a large central factory, since the river Sagua that crosses through its fields furnishes an easy and cheap means of conveying the sugar to the shipping port, which is one of the most important advantages because it allows the factory to be independent of the railway freight, which is one of the most expensive factors of sugar manufacturing in Cuba.

The land belonging to plantation "Santa Ana" measures about 5,000 acres, of which only a small part has been heretofore placed under culture and the balance, mostly woody, consists of good cane soil that can be brought to avail at a very small expense.

The sale of factory "San Manuel" at Porto del Padre, in the province of Santiago de Cuba, to another American syndicate, for the sum of one and a half million dollars, was also reported this week, this being the tenth large factory owned by American citizens in the eastern region of Cuba.

Central factory, "Boston" at Banes, province of Santiago de Cuba, that belongs to the United Fruit Company, of Boston, is grinding with splendid results; when running at its fullest capacity it can grind 1,500 tons of cane per day. It is considered one of the largest and best equipped on the island and is expected to turn out this year 130,000 bags of sugar. But neither this nor any of the other sugar factories existing of old in Cuba can be compared to that of "Chaopara" in the same locality as the foregoing one, which has just started its maiden crop and is justly considered as the largest sugar factory, not only in Cuba, but also in the whole world, since its grinding capacity of 325 tons of cane per hour, which is equivalent to a production of about 2,500 bags of sugar per day of twelve hours work.

CANE SUGAR CROP IN SPAIN.

Mr. Benj. H. Ridgely, Consul at Malaga, in his report to the Department of State, dated February 21, 1902, says: The unusual frosts of December and January have wrought so much damage to the sugar cane of this province that not more than a half crop of sugar can be expected this year.

Sugar cane is grown all along the coast of Malaga, and the annual yield of sugar is about 30,000 tons. There are 17 sugar factories in the provinces of Malaga and Granada, employing many thousand hands. Grinding generally begins about the middle of March. This year, it may commence earlier.

The loss of the sugar-cane crop has resulted in the refusal of the manufacturers to take any part in the proposed organization of Spanish sugar makers, with the view of limiting production. There has been an overproduction of sugar—particularly of beet sugar—in Spain for several years, and strenuous efforts were recently made to form a syndicate of all the sugar manufacturers in Spain for mutual benefits along certain lines. This is understood to have failed because one of the most important beet-sugar factories refused to participate, and for the further reason that the cane-sugar manufacturers, in view of the largely decreased crop, saw no advantage in any further plan to limit production.

APPROXIMATE PRODUCTION OF SUGAR FOR 1901.

Mr. H. W. Diederich, Consul at Bremen, supplementing his report of October 18, on the earliest approximate estimates of this year's beet-sugar crop, adds to-day (October 24, 1901,) some estimates that are based upon later data, and may therefore be considered as coming nearer the truth, though they are not yet to be considered as final :

Accordingingly, the year 1901-2, would show an increase of 361,000 tons of beet sugar over the previous year.

He adds two more authorities on this subject—Gieseke, of Belgium, and the Centralblatt, of Madgeburg—and learns that their investigations now lead them to make the following approximate estimates :

NOTE.—The Collector of Customs of the Island having remitted the statements corresponding to the exports of sugar for the years 1899 and 1900 according to which the average weight of each bag has been corrected, assigning to the exports of 1899 an average weight of 322½ lbs. and to those of 1900 that of 321¼ lbs.; the Secretary, taking into consideration said corrections, deems it advisable to publish the preceding comparative statement for general knowledge; calling attention to the stocks on hand that figure in the statements for last year and previously published and those to be published, each bag has been taken and will be taken at the rate of 320 lbs. on account of this being the weight given by Messrs. Joaquin Cuma and Federico Mejer, in data furnished to the office of the Secretary, reserving the right, however, of making any opportune corrections at the end of the sugar season.

SUMMARY.

COMMERCE OF THE ISLAND OF CUBA.

IMPORTS AND EXPORTS OF MERCHANDISE, SEPTEMBER, 1901.

[NOTE.—Beginning July 1, 1900, the statistical reports to the Division of Insular Affairs were based upon a new schedule, giving the classification of commodities imported and exported much more in detail than were required by the schedule in effect prior to that date. Owing to this change and to the further addition on July 1, 1901, of twenty-two commodities, it is impossible to make comparison by articles and countries in some instances.]

† Apparent loss in exports to United States is accounted for from the fact that during the first nine months of 1899 about $7,000,000 of tobacco and cigars destined for United Kingdom were shipped via New York and reported to this division as exports to United States, the countries of ultimate destination not being given.

OF

COMMERCE OF THE ISLAND OF CUBA.

OCTOBER, 1901.

PREPARED IN

DIVISION OF INSULAR AFFAIRS,

WAR DEPARTMENT.

EXPLANATION OF REGULAR STATISTICAL TABLES.

General imports.—The regular statement of imports of merchandise, by articles and countries, in this publication is what is termed the statement of general imports, embracing imported articles entered for immediate consumption on arrival and articles entered for warehouse.

The term “entry for consumption” is the technical name of the import entry made at the custom-house, and does not imply that the goods have been actually consumed, but simply that they have been delivered into the custody of the importer and that the duties on the dutiable portion have been paid.

The values of articles imported are governed by the regulations in effect May 1, 1899, which prescribe that the values of imported merchandise subject to duty shall be “the actual market value or wholesale price of such merchandise as bought and sold in usual wholesale quantities at the time of exportation in the principal markets of the country from whence imported, and in the condition in which such merchandise is there bought for exportation or consigned for sale, including the value of all cartons, cases, crates, boxes, sacks, and coverings of any kind, and all other costs, charges, and expenses incident to placing the merchandise in condition ready for shipment.”

Domestic exports.—The regular statement of domestic exports, by articles and countries, in this publication exhibits the exports of domestic products or manufactures, also exports of commodities of foreign origin which have been changed from the form in which they were imported or enhanced in value by further manufacture.

The value of exports of domestic merchandise is their value at the time of exportation in the ports of the island whence they are exported.

Tonnage tables.—In the tables of tonnage movement the tonnage is stated in net tons of 100 cubic feet carrying space after the prescribed allowances are made for crew space, engine space, etc.

Weights.—In all tables published the ton weight is 2,240 pounds and the hundredweight is 112 pounds, unless indicated otherwise.

Customs districts.—Statements of imports, exports, and tonnage movement are shown by customs districts, which have a certain prescribed limit of territory with a port of entry.

NOTES.

TOBACCO BUSINESS IN FRANCE.

The tobacco business in France is a monopoly of the Government, no individual having the right to make or sell a cigar or to sell tobacco in any form without a permit, says Consul John C. Covert, in his report to the Department of State dated Sept. 6, 1901.

The Retail Business.

The retail shops are generally kept by women, the widows of soldiers or officers, often by old soldiers themselves. I am told that the widow of an officer of high rank sometimes finds it necessary to petition for permission to keep a retail tobacco and cigar store, which she places in the care of an agent, and her connection with it remains entirely unknown. In all the large cities of France, there are also establishments called tabacs de luxe, where the finer kind of cigars and tobacco are sold and imported. They are owned by the Government, are in charge of men appointed by the same, and are not permitted to retail, as the State is not disposed to compete with the individuals whom it has authorized to open cigar stores.

To have the right to keep a retail tobacco and cigar store is considered a privilege worth working for, and it is said that every change of ministry is sure to give an opportunity to the exercise of the appointive power of the Government, which augments the number of retail tobacco dealers.

The tobacco sold in France annually aggregates to the State about $79,137,137. The expense to the State in buying raw material, labor, freight, etc., is $14,535,324, leaving the very handsome profit of $64,601,813. The State factories use 26,769,310 kilograms (59,026,325 pounds) of domestic tobacco and 15,000,000 kilograms (33,075,000 pounds) of imported leaf. The domestic costs $17.27 per 220 pounds, and the imported $27.88 per 220 pounds. Thirteen million kilograms (28,665,000 pounds) of the imported tobacco comes from the New World, mostly from the United States, and the largest quantity of this (called "Burley") is from Kentucky.

The Factory at Lyons.

The director of the work in Lyons gave me particulars about the business here and in other parts of France. There are 20 factories in France—3 in Paris, and the others in the large cities. In 1899, they employed 17,184 hands, 15,732 of whom were women and girls. Besides these, there are 714 persons employed as directors, overseers, foremen, etc. Next year, the factory in Lyons will make 22,000 kilograms (48,501 pounds) of fine-cut chewing tobacco, 176,000 pounds of common smoking tobacco, 176,000 pounds of pure Maryland, 88,000 pounds superior (composed of a combination of Kentucky, Maryland, and the best domestic), and 2,530,000 pounds of common, called "Scafferlati," a cheap smoking tobacco. This very cheap tobacco is used on the frontiers, where smuggling is prevalent, to meet the competition of the contraband article. Large quantities are also sold to the inmates of infirmaries and poorhouses.

The State tobacco factory at Lyons will next year manufacture 5,500,000 cigars that sell for 2 cents and 1,250,000 1-cent cigars, 20,000,000 cigars to sell at 1½ cents, and many millions of cigarettes.

Tobacco is grown in France, but large quantities are imported from the United States, Brazil, Cuba, and Java. Of the imports from the United States, that from Ohio is the favorite as regards packing and general preparation. Maryland stands highest for cigarettes and Kentucky is pronounced good for strong smoking tobacco, this being imported in larger quantities than any other American tobacco. As far as I have been able to learn, no one here knows anything about the fine Connecticut tobacco, so popular in America with all genuine lovers of good cigars. I feel confident that if an effort were made a good market for it would be found in France. The Connecticut wrapper and seed filler ought also to be popular among the cigars de luxe in France.

The Preparation of the Tobacco.

As the cigar business in the United States, especially outside the large cities, is carried on largely in small shops and in families, a description of the workings of the factory in Lyons may prove interesting and perhaps useful. The factory is a four-story building covering 3 acres of ground. The first thing done to the tobacco, preparatory to its transformation into cigars, is to soak it in salted water. Then, instead of pressing the weed to free it from its strong, rank odor—contracted largely while being packed during shipment—it is dried in a hollow iron wheel that revolves 100 times per minute. After the tobacco is stripped, the stems are placed into large vats, under pressure, a stream of water percolating slowly through them, and the juice thus expressed is sold for 16 cents per quart. Last year, the Lyons factory realized nearly 2,000 francs ($368) from this source. One quart of this juice contains 40 grams of nicotine—sometimes as high as 60 grams. It is sold to veterinary surgeons, who use it upon animals afflicted with the itch or other skin diseases. Large quantities of it are exported to Buenos Ayres, where, I am told, it is regarded as a cure for sheep's itch.

When cut and ready for market, the tobacco is packed by machinery, the labor of three girls contributing to make each package. One places the wrapper around the tin frame, another places this in a wooden orifice and fills it with the tobacco, which has been weighed by a third person. A slow hydraulic pressure is then brought down upon the tobacco, slightly reducing it, when the tin forms are handed back to the first person, who finishes the packing and prepares another form. The girls work very actively; three of them pack 12,500 packages a day, their wages being respectively 60, 70, and 75 cents per day. Thus 12,500 packs of tobacco are done up for about $2.05, not counting the use of the machinery.

The Cigar Department.

No one but women and young girls are engaged in making cigars, cigarettes, and fillers, and in cutting wrappers. The work is all done on the principle of a division of labor; the cutting of the wrappers, the breaking of the fillers, the rolling of the latter up in the wrapper, and the putting of the little kinky head on the cigar, all of which is done by one person in the small shops in the United States, is done by five different individuals in the State tobacco factory in this city. The woman who cuts the wrapper does it with a little revolving wheel blade on the end of a handle instead of with the usual cigar maker's knife. She cuts many thousands of wrappers a day, the work all being measured by weight, and the girls or women to whom the wrappers and fillers are brought ready for use make from 500 to 800 cigars a day, for which they receive 45, 50, and 60 cents. One hundred and eighty-eight women and girls, from 16 to 28 years of age, work ten hours a day in the cigar department, and only one of them earns as high as $1 per day. Their situations are very desirable, and there is now a list of applications for places containing over 500 names. There is one filler machine on which two women break 1,500 fillers per day. A cunning machine in use here, invented by an employee, makes the head on cigars after they are rolled, and does the work of about a dozen hands. Another machine, which, I think, is an American invention, makes 140,000 cigarettes per day. Most of the boxes in which the cheap cigars are packed are made of cardboard. The wooden boxes are manufactured from the heads of hogsheds in which tobacco comes here from the United States. The price is marked by the Government on every box of cigars and on every package of cigarettes or paper of tobacco.

I was surprised to learn that a great deal of chewing tobacco is manufactured here and consumed in France. Generally speaking, Frenchmen are not chewers of the Indian weed; but in the manufacturing districts, where men work twelve hours a day and can not smoke during that time, they chew. In seaport towns, the habit of chewing is due to the presence of the American sailor.

Notes.

The tobacco business in France is a very important source of revenue to the Government. The capital invested in the buildings, machinery, etc., is $10,385,216, and the Government generally realizes a profit of between $60,000,000 and $80,000,000. The State usually carries from $15,000 to $20,000 in stock, consisting of raw material and cigars. In 1899, the net profits were $67,276,243.52.

SUMMARY.

COMMERCE OF THE ISLAND OF CUBA.

IMPORTS AND EXPORTS OF MERCHANDISE, OCTOBER, 1901.

[NOTE.—Beginning July 1, 1900, the statistical reports to the Division of Insular Affairs were based upon a new schedule, giving the classification of commodities imported and exported much more in detail than were required by the schedule in effect prior to that date. Owing to this change and to the further addition on July 1, 1901, of twenty-two commodities, it is impossible to make comparison by articles and countries in some instances.]

OF

COMMERCE OF THE ISLAND OF CUBA.

NOVEMBER, 1901.

PREPARED IN

DIVISION OF INSULAR AFFAIRS,

WAR DEPARTMENT.

EXPLANATION OF REGULAR STATISTICAL TABLES.

General imports.—The regular statement of imports of merchandise, by articles and countries, in this publication is what is termed the statement of general imports, embracing imported articles entered for immediate consumption on arrival and articles entered for warehouse.

The term “entry for consumption” is the technical name of the import entry made at the custom-house, and does not imply that the goods have been actually consumed, but simply that they have been delivered into the custody of the importer and that the duties on the dutiable portion have been paid.

The values of articles imported are governed by the regulations in effect May 1, 1899, which prescribe that the values of imported merchandise subject to duty shall be “the actual market value or wholesale price of such merchandise as bought and sold in usual wholesale quantities at the time of exportation in the principal markets of the country from whence imported, and in the condition in which such merchandise is there bought for exportation or consigned for sale, including the value of all cartons, cases, crates, boxes, sacks, and coverings of any kind, and all other costs, charges, and expenses incident to placing the merchandise in condition ready for shipment.”

Domestic exports.—The regular statement of domestic exports, by articles and countries, in this publication exhibits the exports of domestic products or manufactures, also exports of commodities of foreign origin which have been changed from the form in which they were imported or enhanced in value by further manufacture.

The value of exports of domestic merchandise is their value at the time of exportation in the ports of the island whence they are exported.

Tonnage tables.—In the tables of tonnage movement the tonnage is stated in net tons of 100 cubic feet carrying space after the prescribed allowances are made for crew space, engine space, etc.

Weights.—In all tables published the ton weight is 2,240 pounds and the hundredweight is 112 pounds, unless indicated otherwise.

Customs districts.—Statements of imports, exports, and tonnage movement are shown by customs districts, which have a certain prescribed limit of territory with a port of entry.

NOTES.

ISLE OF PINES MARBLE.

The Havana Sun is authority for the statement that Messrs. Keenan Bros., of Pittsburg, the recent purchasers of the marble quarries of the Isle of Pines, recently sent to Cuba Mr. Guiseppi Moretti, a noted Italian sculptor, to examine the stone.

Mr. Moretti has just returned from a visit to the Isle of Pines, and while there made a thorough test of the different grades of marble in the quarry.

Mr. Moretti says the test he made on the white marble found there proves it to be of the finest quality, and especially adaptable for statuary.

The company will spend over $100,000 in the development of the quarries, in the way of placing machinery, etc., and we learn that work will begin very shortly.

Mr. Moretti estimates that these quarries are worth at least $1,000,000.

$1,000,000 SUGAR PLANT.

There is in course of construction near Guyabal an immense sugar plant, which will be known as the Francisco Sugar Company, and will cost $1,000,000, says the Havana Sun.

Mr. J. Craig, of New York, is the president of the company, but who the other officers are we have been unable to learn.

It will be a 15-ton cane plant and will have a capacity of 1,000 tons of sugar per day, with an extension of 2,000 tons if necessary.

It is stated on good authority that the mill will be in operation by February 1st next.

Milliken Bros., of New York are erecting the building, which is of steel and will be fireproof.

The Newhall Engineering Co., of Havana, is putting in all the machinery, which is a guarantee that it will be a modern concern.

SUGAR INDUSTRY OF SANTO DOMINGO.

Under date of January 27, 1902, Consul-General Maxwell, of Santo Domingo, sends to the Department of State clipping from the Listin Diario in regard to the sugar industry, in which President Jimenez is quoted as saying:

The Government is considering the advisability of abolishing the small tax of 3 cents on sugar; of placing empty sacks on the free list; of negotiating with the transport company for freight reductions, and for the lowering of wharf and warehouse charges; and of proposing to the United States Government a reduction of its duty on sugar, in exchange for a reduction of import duty on articles from that country.

NEW ANTWERP-CUBA STEAMSHIP SERVICE.

Consul-General Lincoln, of Antwerp, reports to the Department of State December 21, 1901, that a new direct line of steamers from Antwerp to Cuban ports has been established by the North German Lloyd Steamship Company. This service, the consul-general adds, will be carried out by the steamers, Coblentz, Roland, Stolberg, Trier, and Mainz; the Coblentz leaving Antwerp January 20 next and the others following at intervals of two weeks.

EXPERIMENTS WITH CUBAN TOBACCO IN THE ARGENTINE.

The River Plate republics, the Argentine Government especially, are semi-officially encouraging experiments in the culture of Tobacco from Cuban seed; and plantings more or less extensive have been made in the department of Bella Vista, Saladas, Emburucaya and Caa-Cati, where the climate and lands seem to be best adapted to proper culture of the fragrant leaf, says the special correspondent of "The Havana Cigar."

In the Argentine province of Corrientes, near the town of San Lorenzo, Senor Jose Lopez Somoza has just put in 60,000 plants under the direction of a Cuban gentleman formerly a resident of Vuelta Abajo, who came here under contract some months ago.

AMERICAN CULTIVATORS IN CUBAN TOBACCO FIELDS.

"The Havana Cigar" is authority for the statement that:

Everywhere throughout the Vuelta Abajo the making of seed beds continues. The first were planted on the 15th of August and from then until now, whenever the frequent rains have permitted, the work has progressed. In the earlier beds the plants are well up and indications point this year to a large supply of "postura."

A new condition of affairs is the increased use, especially near the cities, of American plows. While American fertilizers will have to prove their worth by actual trial, the value of the American plow has been accepted at once without question. The Cuban plow is still used, but it is merely for marking or for some similar light work. Up to date, seed beds planted with American commercial fertilizers have held their own against those sown with the best Peruvian guano.

Everyone appreciates the need of cheaper fertilizer and any experiments in this direction are watched by all with the greatest of interest.

SUGAR PRODUCTION IN NICARAGUA.

Consul Donaldson, of Managua, under date of December 14, 1901, in his report to the Department of State says that during the last twelve months Nicaragua has exported over 4,000,000 pounds of cane sugar (not refined). Of this amount, over 3,000,000 pounds were sent to the United States and about 1,000,000 pounds to Vancouver, British Columbia. Nearly all, says the consul, was produced in the Departments of Chinandega and Leon and exported from the port of Corinto. Sugar is also produced in the Departments of Managua, Granada, Rivas, Carazo, and Chontales, but not enough for local consumption. Four years ago, the production of sugar in Nicaragua was less than half the home consumption. Two years ago, the production exceeded the consumption by about 1,000,000 pounds, and since then the production has increased over 300 per cent.

BREMEN-CUBA STEAMSHIP LINE.

Consul Monaghan, of Chemnitz, September 17, 1901, says in his report to the Department of State:

According to report, the North German Lloyd has decided to open a line from Bremen to Cuba, vessels sailing regularly every four weeks and touching at Habana, Cienfuegos, Manzanillo, and Santiago de Cuba. Vessels begin sailing for Cuban ports about the middle of November of this year. From February, 1902, it is the intention of the line to have a bimonthly service. This is another example of Germany's endeavor to secure not only markets in all parts of the world, but efficient and regular connections with the same.

NEW ELECTRIC RAILWAY IN MEXICO.

Consul-General Hanna, of Monterey, January 14, 1902, says it is understood that an American company has obtained a concession to build and operate an electric street-car line on several of the streets of that city, with extensions to Topo Chico, to the new steel plant, and to the smelters. It is also understood, the consul-general adds, that Mackin & Dillon, of Monterey, are the principal promoters, and that the greater part of the equipment will probably be purchased in the United States.

NEW ISLE OF PINES COMPANY.

It is called the Almacigas Springs Land Company, and has a Capital of $70,000.

The Almacigas Springs Land Co., capital $70,000, has just been organized under the laws of the State of Iowa, to do business on the Isle of Pines, says the Havana Post. This is the third incorporated American company, by Americans, for the Isle of Pines.

Many Americans are settling there and the business of orange culture has begun in earnest by men who are thoroughly conversant with citrus fruit culture.

FOURTEEN NEW SHIPS

Will Ply to Havana by the New Steamship Company.

The American steamship line, the United States Steamship Co., between Boston, Havana, Mexico, Central and South America will have a fleet which will consist of 14 vessels and Boston will be the headquarters of the line, says the Havana Post.

The steamers will sail direct from Boston to Havana and San Juan, Porto Rico, connecting at both points with other steamers of the same line for other points in the West Indies and the continent. This is Boston's first direct steam freight route to the West Indies and Latin America. The capital stock of the company is $5,000,000 and the president is A. N. White, of Pawtucket, R. I.

WILL TOW COAL TO CUBA.

[From the Philadelphia Press.]

So successful have been the attempts thus far made to tow coal-laden barges to Cuba from Philadelphia that the Staples Coal Company, of Taunton, Mass., a corporation closely allied to the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, has contracted with Kelly & Spear, of Bath, Me., for the construction of two 4,000-ton barges. The new vessels, which will be the largest yet built for the Staples Company, will be named the Santiago and the Cienfuegos. They will be similar in construction to the four barges now in service between this city and Havana, and will be fitted with sufficient sail area to enable them to take care of themselves in the event of their breaking loose from the towing tug in bad weather.

With six barges of the combined capacity of 20,000 tons, the tug Cuba, which was built exclusively for this business, can be kept moving without delay. The idea is to reduce expenses to the smallest possible scale by having two barges in Cuba discharging, two in Philadelphia loading and two at sea all the time.

SUMMARY.

COMMERCE OF THE ISLAND OF CUBA.

IMPORTS AND EXPORTS OF MERCHANDISE, NOVEMBER, 1901.

[NOTE.—Beginning July 1, 1900, the statistical reports to the Division of Insular Affairs were based upon a new schedule, giving the classification of commodities imported and exported much more in detail than were required by the schedule in effect prior to that date. Owing to this change and to the further addition on July 1, 1901, of twenty-two commodities, it is impossible to make comparison by articles and countries in some instances.]

OF

COMMERCE OF THE ISLAND OF CUBA.

DECEMBER, 1901.

PREPARED IN

DIVISION OF INSULAR AFFAIRS,

WAR DEPARTMENT.

EXPLANATION OF REGULAR STATISTICAL TABLES.

General imports.—The regular statement of imports of merchandise, by articles and countries, in this publication is what is termed the statement of general imports, embracing imported articles entered for immediate consumption on arrival and articles entered for warehouse.

The term "entry for consumption" is the technical name of the import entry made at the custom-house, and does not imply that the goods have been actually consumed, but simply that they have been delivered into the custody of the importer and that the duties on the dutiable portion have been paid.

The values of articles imported are governed by the regulations in effect May 1, 1899, which prescribe that the values of imported merchandise subject to duty shall be "the actual market value or wholesale price of such merchandise as bought and sold in usual wholesale quantities at the time of exportation in the principal markets of the country from whence imported, and in the condition in which such merchandise is there bought for exportation or consigned for sale, including the value of all cartons, cases, crates, boxes, sacks, and coverings of any kind, and all other costs, charges, and expenses incident to placing the merchandise in condition ready for shipment."

Domestic exports.—The regular statement of domestic exports, by articles and countries, in this publication exhibits the exports of domestic products or manufactures, also exports of commodities of foreign origin which have been changed from the form in which they were imported or enhanced in value by further manufacture.

The value of exports of domestic merchandise is their value at the time of exportation in the ports of the island whence they are exported.

Tonnage tables.—In the tables of tonnage movement the tonnage is stated in net tons of 100 cubic feet carrying space after the prescribed allowances are made for crew space, engine space, etc.

Weights.—In all tables published the ton weight is 2,240 pounds and the hundredweight is 112 pounds, unless indicated otherwise.

Customs districts.—Statements of imports, exports, and tonnage movement are shown by customs districts, which have a certain prescribed limit of territory with a port of entry.

AMERICAN BEET CROP ESTIMATE.

(From Willett & Gray's Sugar Trade Journal, March 27, 1902.)

The American beet sugar factories have now finished their campaign, and we have obtained, from the best sources, reports of the results for the season. The quantity of beets received and of sugar produced by States for the campaign 1901-1902, may be stated as follows, the figures being given separately, in tons of 2,000 lbs. each and in tons of 2,240 lbs. each:

STATES.	BEETS RECEIVED	SUGAR PRODUCED	BEETS RECEIVED	SUGAR PRODUCED
	TONS, 2,000 LBS. EACH.	TONS, 2,000 LBS. EACH.	TONS, 2,240 LBS. EACH.	TONS, 2,240 LBS. EACH.
New York	47,437	4,535	42,354	4,049
Wisconsin	28,000	2,900	25,000	2,589
Ohio	28,000	3,500	25,000	3,126
Michigan	495,133	52,296	442,082	46,692
Minnesota	27,000	2,750	24,107	2,455
Nebraska	69,485	7,459	62,040	6,660
Colorado	203,663	22,375	181,842	19,977
Utah	131,332	14,275	117,260	12,748
Oregon	14,000	1,400	12,500	1,250
Washington	10,000	960	8,929	857
California	650,545	70,250	580,843	62,723
Total.	1,704,595	182,700	1,521,957	163,126

The factory in New Mexico did not work during this season. The factory in Pekin, Illinois, discontinued the making of sugar from beets, having been remodelled so as to produce glucose, and the beets grown for it this season were worked up elsewhere, principally by the factory in Fremont, Ohio. No sugar was manufactured in Indiana this season, as the factory projected by the Central Sugar Co., Shelby, Indiana, was not completed, but the beets grown for that company were worked at the factory in Benton Harbor, Michigan, and the outturn credited to the latter State. The total production of sugar by American beet sugar factories, during the previous campaign of 1900-1901, was 76,859 tons of 2,240 lbs. each. The increase this season is due largely to the normal conditions of weather which finally prevailed in California after three years of drought. There are six new factories contracted for to be built in the United States for the coming season 1902-03 and now well under way, of which four are in Michigan and two in Colorado. Four factories are being built in Ontario, Canada.

SUMMARY.

COMMERCE OF THE ISLAND OF CUBA.

IMPORTS AND EXPORTS OF MERCHANDISE, DECEMBER, 1901.

[NOTE.—Beginning July 1, 1900, the statistical reports to the Division of Insular Affairs were based upon a new schedule, giving the classification of commodities imported and exported much more in detail than were required by the schedule in effect prior to that date. Owing to this change and to the further addition on July 1, 1901, of twenty-two commodities, it is impossible to make comparison by articles and countries in some instances.]

Graphic Statement of the Sugar Production in the United States and Countries now depending upon the United States, and of the Consumption of Sugar in the United States. EXPLANATION OF REGULAR STATISTICAL TABLES.

General imports.—The regular statement of imports of merchandise, by articles and countries, in this publication is what is termed the statement of general imports, embracing imported articles entered for immediate consumption on arrival and articles entered for warehouse.

The term "entry for consumption" is the technical name of the import entry made at the custom-house, and does not imply that the goods have been actually consumed, but simply that they have been delivered into the custody of the importer and that the duties on the dutiable portion have been paid.

The values of articles imported are governed by the regulations in effect May 1, 1899, which prescribe that the values of imported merchandise subject to duty shall be "the actual market value or wholesale price of such merchandise as bought and sold in usual wholesale quantities at the time of exportation in the principal markets of the country from whence imported, and in the condition in which such merchandise is there bought for exportation or consigned for sale, including the value of all cartons, cases, crates, boxes, sacks, and coverings of any kind, and all other costs, charges, and expenses incident to placing the merchandise in condition ready for shipment."

Domestic exports.—The regular statement of domestic exports, by articles and countries, in this publication exhibits the exports of domestic products or manufactures, also exports of commodities of foreign origin which have been changed from the form in which they were imported or enhanced in value by further manufacture.

The value of exports of domestic merchandise is their value at the time of exportation in the ports of the island whence they are exported.

Tonnage tables.—In the tables of tonnage movement the tonnage is stated in net tons of 100 cubic feet carrying space after the prescribed allowances are made for crew space, engine space, etc.

Weights.—In all tables published the ton weight is 2,240 pounds and the hundredweight is 112 pounds, unless indicated otherwise.

Customs districts.—Statements of imports, exports, and tonnage movement are shown by customs districts, which have a certain prescribed limit of territory with a port of entry.

NOTES.

SUGAR PRODUCTION IN THE UNITED STATES.

The following statement of the Sugar production in the United States and the countries now depending upon the United States, and of the consumption of sugar in the United States, has been prepared by Mr. L. V. de Abad, Cuban Special Commissioner, Washington, D. C. (Figures taken from U. S. and English official statistics. See Chart.)

He says, "In the hearings of the Ways and Means Committee, and in official documents, it has been sufficiently demonstrated that the United States has in the past been obliged to resort to foreign nations in order to obtain a large part of the sugar its people consume; that Cuba, even when her production and population reached the highest point, was very far from being able to supply the demand of the American market, and that, therefore, the price in this country has been regulated by the price in Hamburg, plus transportation, duties and other charges."

A diagram which will be found herein, not only corroborates this statement, but illustrates the following points:

1. Cuba's production since 1860 has oscillated between 537,000 tons in the year 1860, and 1,054,000 in 1894, as a maximum, and 225,000 tons in 1896, as a minimum, the highest figure having been obtained during the period when this country admitted the Cuban sugar free of duty in virtue of a commercial arrangement with Spain.

2. The production of sugar (which furnishes employment to four-fifths of the laborers of Cuba) depends upon an increase of the population of the island. Accordingly, if, in 1894, with an estimated population of 1,800,000, and the market of the United States free, she could produce only a little more than 1,000,000 tons, there is no reason whatever to believe that now, with her people 250,000 less in number than in 1894, she can produce more sugar.

3. The line in the diagram representing the increase in the consumption of sugar in the United States makes it evident that during forty-two years this increase has sustained a fairly constant relation to the growth in population, and that at no time in the last thirty years could the demand have been supplied by (a) the domestic industry, and (b) the colonial industry, and (c) the Cuban industry, all united. Moreover, the United States finds it necessary to buy sugar from foreign countries in larger amounts each year.

These facts furnish incontestable proof that, for many years to come, the price of sugar in the United States must, in obedience to economic laws, be regulated by the price in Europe, plus transportation, duties, etc., and, therefore, the importations from Cuba cannot depress it.

SALT INDUSTRY OF CUBA.

Largest Salt Evaporator in the World is Located Near Cardenas. Is a Growing Industry and May Prove of Great National Importance—Has Large Capacity.

Very few people in Cuba know that on the peninsula of Hicacos, near Cardenas, at its northern extremity, is the largest plant in the world so far as natural facilities are concerned, for the evaporation of sea water producing salt, says the Manila Post. This plant is located at Salina, and consists of two large lagoons with such accessories, improvements, etc., necessary for the crystallization, storing and the shipping of the product, salt. Operated by the Saez Medina, Rogas, et al., contingent, it has steadily grown to be a work of great importance to the whole Island of Cuba.

"Nangon" and "Salina Grande," the two lagoons, are fed primarily, by a branch known as "Mangocito," through which the fresh supply of sea water is drained at high tide from the Gulf of Mexico. The supply from the bay of Cardenas is by percolation through the swamp "La Empalizada," and the natural environments of the saline have proven conclusively that as a productive plant it is unsurpassed.

The Salinas were not exploited to any extent prior to 1830, the operators at that period seeming not to interest themselves materially in its advancement, but from 1830 until 1890 improvements have slowly but surely taken place. In the year last cited a partnership was formed among several Cuban gentlemen at Cardenas for the exploitation of these lagoons, and within a short time a long low wall, cribbing off the ocean (malecon) was constructed, together with warehouses, barracks, manager's residence, shops, etc., and now the "salina" is a productive plant with approximately four miles of cribs for partitions, the lagoon, upon all of which narrow gauge tracks have been constructed. Fresh salt water is run from the gulf into the first large lagoon. The density of the sea water, even in the severe rainy season, is 14 degrees. This water is then systematically drawn into smaller depositories where the actual crystallization takes place. In these depositories salt is separated, free from an excess of deposits, in crystals, none of which are smaller than a half inch and frequently as large as an inch square.

Those crystals are then shovelled into cars and hauled by oxen to the warehouses, bagged and shipped throughout the Island.

The works could be improved by cementing the floors of the lesser cribs, and subsequently afford means of supplying the whole Island and an excess for export.

It seems to be particularly unfortunate that the Syracuse manufacturers, with their immense facilities, have not attempted to secure the option on these salinas and force the acknowledged infantile industry to be one of national importance.

The salina is located on the line of the proposed Matanzas, Cardenas, Varadero, and Punta Mola Traction Company, and this, with the system of wharves already owned and operated by the Salina Company, would afford ample means in securing the necessary facilities for transportation.

The salina is the only lake of its class on the Island, and this immediately suggests the inability of foreign producers in competition with local industries of this character.

SUMMARY.

COMMERCE OF THE ISLAND OF CUBA.

IMPORTS AND EXPORTS OF MERCHANDISE, JANUARY, 1902.

[NOTE.—Beginning July 1, 1900, the statistical reports to the Division of Insular Affairs were based upon a new schedule, giving the classification of commodities imported and exported much more in detail than were required by the schedule in effect prior to that date. Owing to this change and to the further addition on July 1, 1901, of twenty-two commodities, it is impossible to make comparison by articles and countries in some instances.]

OF

COMMERCE OF THE ISLAND OF CUBA.

FEBRUARY, 1902.

PREPARED IN

DIVISION OF INSULAR AFFAIRS,

WAR DEPARTMENT.

EXPLANATION OF REGULAR STATISTICAL TABLES.

General imports.—The regular statement of imports of merchandise, by articles and countries, in this publication is what is termed the statement of general imports, embracing imported articles entered for immediate consumption on arrival and articles entered for warehouse.

The term “entry for consumption” is the technical name of the import entry made at the custom-house, and does not imply that the goods have been actually consumed, but simply that they have been delivered into the custody of the importer and that the duties on the dutiable portion have been paid.

The values of articles imported are governed by the regulations in effect May 1, 1899, which prescribe that the values of imported merchandise subject to duty shall be “the actual market value or wholesale price of such merchandise as bought and sold in usual wholesale quantities at the time of exportation in the principal markets of the country from whence imported, and in the condition in which such merchandise is there bought for exportation or consigned for sale, including the value of all cartons, cases, crates, boxes, sacks, and coverings of any kind, and all other costs, charges, and expenses incident to placing the merchandise in condition ready for shipment.”

Domestic exports.—The regular statement of domestic exports, by articles and countries, in this publication exhibits the exports of domestic products or manufactures, also exports of commodities of foreign origin which have been changed from the form in which they were imported or enhanced in value by further manufacture.

The value of exports of domestic merchandise is their value at the time of exportation in the ports of the island whence they are exported.

Tonnage tables.—In the tables of tonnage movement the tonnage is stated in net tons of 100 cubic feet carrying space after the prescribed allowances are made for crew space, engine space, etc.

Weights.—In all tables published the ton weight is 2,240 pounds and the hundredweight is 112 pounds, unless indicated otherwise.

Customs districts.—Statements of imports, exports, and tonnage movement are shown by customs districts, which have a certain prescribed limit of territory with a port of entry.

NOTES.

RAILWAYS FOR CUBA.

Company With $2,500,000 Capital Incorporated to Build.

(From the Commercial Bulletin, June 5, 1902.)

Articles of incorporation were filed yesterday in the office of the county clerk in Jersey City by the Insular Railway Company, which purposes to build and operate railroads in the new West Indian republic. The capitalization is $2,500,000, all common stock of which $500,000 has already been paid in, with which to begin operations. The registered office of the company is at No. 15 Exchange Place, Jersey City. The principal office is at No. 34 Empedrado Street, Havana, Cuba.

The incorporators are Wendall J. Wright, Demarest, N. J.; Isaac Gans, New York; Harry P. Ward, Closter, N. J.; Alfred I. Davidson, Rockville Center, N. Y., and James H. Griffith, Lynbrook, N. Y. One of the lines will be fifty-five kilometers in length and will run from Havana to the city of Mariel, Province of Pinar del Rio. The others, which are in the Province of Havana, are as follows: From Havana to the city of Guinis, 55 kilometers; Punta Brava to Guira de Melena, 26 kilometers; El Cano to Marsagua, 23 kilometers; San Diego de Las Vegas to the city of Veguical, 5 kilometers; El Cano to Cangrejas, 10 kilometers.

New Electric Railway.

The Havana & Jaiuanitas Railway Company, with headquarters at Youngstown, Ohio, has been incorporated under the laws of the State of Delaware, with a capital of $1,000,000, for the purpose of constructing an electric railway between the Cuban capital and Jaiuanitas, a distance of nine miles. W. H. Park, Harry G. Hamilton, Myron A. Morris, J. N. Thompson, and others, all of Youngstown, are interested in the project. W. H. Park and J. D. Milligan have left for Cuba, and the latter will be in charge of the construction of the road.

SUMMARY.

COMMERCE OF THE ISLAND OF CUBA.

IMPORTS AND EXPORTS OF MERCHANDISE, FEBRUARY, 1902.

[NOTE.—Beginning July 1, 1900, the statistical reports to the Division of Insular Affairs were based upon a new schedule, giving the classification of commodities imported and exported much more in detail than were required by the schedule in effect prior to that date. Owing to this change and to the further addition on July 1, 1901, of twenty-two commodities, it is impossible to make comparison by articles and countries in some instances.]

No. 9, SERIES 1901-1902.

OF

COMMERCE OF THE ISLAND OF CUBA.

MARCH, 1902.

PREPARED IN THE

BUREAU OF INSULAR AFFAIRS.

WAR DEPARTMENT.

EXPLANATION OF REGULAR STATISTICAL TABLES.

General imports.—The regular statement of imports of merchandise, by articles and countries, in this publication is what is termed the statement of general imports, embracing imported articles entered for immediate consumption on arrival and articles entered for warehouse.

The term “entry for consumption” is the technical name of the import entry made at the custom-house, and does not imply that the goods have been actually consumed, but simply that they have been delivered into the custody of the importer and that the duties on the dutiable portion have been paid.

The values of articles imported are governed by the regulations in effect May 1, 1899, which prescribe that the values of imported merchandise subject to duty shall be “the actual market value or wholesale price of such merchandise as bought and sold in usual wholesale quantities at the time of exportation in the principal markets of the country from whence imported, and in the condition in which such merchandise is there bought for exportation or consigned for sale, including the value of all cartons, cases, crates, boxes, sacks, and coverings of any kind, and all other costs, charges, and expenses incident to placing the merchandise in condition ready for shipment.”

Domestic exports.—The regular statement of domestic exports, by articles and countries, in this publication exhibits the exports of domestic products or manufactures, also exports of commodities of foreign origin which have been changed from the form in which they were imported or enhanced in value by further manufacture.

The value of exports of domestic merchandise is their value at the time of exportation in the ports of the island whence they are exported.

Tonnage tables.—In the tables of tonnage movement the tonnage is stated in net tons of 100 cubic feet carrying space after the prescribed allowances are made for crew space, engine space, etc.

Weights.—In all tables published the ton weight is 2,240 pounds and the hundredweight is 112 pounds, unless indicated otherwise.

Customs districts.—Statements of imports, exports, and tonnage movement are shown by customs districts, which have a certain prescribed limit of territory with a port of entry.

SUMMARY.

COMMERCE OF THE ISLAND OF CUBA.

IMPORTS AND EXPORTS OF MERCHANDISE, MARCH, 1902.

[NOTE.—Beginning July 1, 1900, the statistical reports to the Division of Insular Affairs were based upon a new schedule, giving the classification of commodities imported and exported much more in detail than were required by the schedule in effect prior to that date. Owing to this change and to the further addition on July 1, 1901, of twenty-two commodities, it is impossible to make comparison by articles and countries in some instances.]

No. 10, SERIES 1901-1902.

OF

COMMERCE OF THE ISLAND OF CUBA.

APRIL, 1902.

PREPARED IN THE

BUREAU OF INSULAR AFFAIRS.

WAR DEPARTMENT.

EXPLANATION OF REGULAR STATISTICAL TABLES.

General imports.—The regular statement of imports of merchandise, by articles and countries, in this publication is what is termed the statement of general imports, embracing imported articles entered for immediate consumption on arrival and articles entered for warehouse.

The term "entry for consumption" is the technical name of the import entry made at the custom-house, and does not imply that the goods have been actually consumed, but simply that they have been delivered into the custody of the importer and that the duties on the dutiable portion have been paid.

The values of articles imported are governed by the regulations in effect May 1, 1899, which prescribe that the values of imported merchandise subject to duty shall be "the actual market value or wholesale price of such merchandise as bought and sold in usual wholesale quantities at the time of exportation in the principal markets of the country from whence imported, and in the condition in which such merchandise is there bought for exportation or consigned for sale, including the value of all cartons, cases, crates, boxes, sacks, and coverings of any kind, and all other costs, charges, and expenses incident to placing the merchandise in condition ready for shipment."

Domestic exports.—The regular statement of domestic exports, by articles and countries, in this publication exhibits the exports of domestic products or manufactures, also exports of commodities of foreign origin which have been changed from the form in which they were imported or enhanced in value by further manufacture.

The value of exports of domestic merchandise is their value at the time of exportation in the ports of the island whence they are exported.

Tonnage tables.—In the tables of tonnage movement the tonnage is stated in net tons of 100 cubic feet carrying space after the prescribed allowances are made for crew space, engine space, etc.

Weights.—In all tables published the ton weight is 2,240 pounds and the hundredweight is 112 pounds, unless indicated otherwise.

Customs districts.—Statements of imports, exports, and tonnage movement are shown by customs districts, which have a certain prescribed limit of territory with a port of entry.

SUMMARY. COMMERCE OF THE ISLAND OF CUBA.

IMPORTS AND EXPORTS OF MERCHANDISE, APRIL, 1902.

(NOTE.—Beginning July 1, 1900, the statistical reports to the Division of Insular Affairs were based upon a new schedule, giving the classification of commodities imported and exported much more in detail than were required by the schedule in effect prior to that date. Owing to this change and to the further addition on July 1, 1901, of twenty-two commodities, it is impossible to make comparison by articles and countries in some instances.)

OF

COMMERCE OF THE ISLAND OF CUBA.

MAY, 1902.

PREPARED IN THE

BUREAU OF INSULAR AFFAIRS,

WAR DEPARTMENT.

EXPLANATION OF REGULAR STATISTICAL TABLES.

General imports.—The regular statement of imports of merchandise, by articles and countries, in this publication is what is termed the statement of general imports, embracing imported articles entered for immediate consumption on arrival and articles entered for warehouse.

The term "entry for consumption" is the technical name of the import entry made at the custom-house, and does not imply that the goods have been actually consumed, but simply that they have been delivered into the custody of the importer and that the duties on the dutiable portion have been paid.

The values of articles imported are governed by the regulations in effect May 1, 1899, which prescribe that the values of imported merchandise subject to duty shall be "the actual market value or wholesale price of such merchandise as bought and sold in usual wholesale quantities at the time of exportation in the principal markets of the country from whence imported, and in the condition in which such merchandise is there bought for exportation or consigned for sale, including the value of all cartons, cases, crates, boxes, sacks, and coverings of any kind, and all other costs, charges, and expenses incident to placing the merchandise in condition ready for shipment."

Domestic exports.—The regular statement of domestic exports, by articles and countries, in this publication exhibits the exports of domestic products or manufactures, also exports of commodities of foreign origin which have been changed from the form in which they were imported or enhanced in value by further manufacture.

The value of exports of domestic merchandise is their value at the time of exportation in the ports of the island whence they are exported.

Tonnage tables.—In the tables of tonnage movement the tonnage is stated in net tons of 100 cubic feet carrying space after the prescribed allowances are made for crew space, engine space, etc.

Weights.—In all tables published the ton weight is 2,240 pounds and the hundredweight is 112 pounds, unless indicated otherwise.

Customs districts.—Statements of imports, exports, and tonnage movement are shown by customs districts which have a certain prescribed limit of territory with a port of entry.

NOTES.

COMMERCE OF THE ISLAND OF CUBA DURING THE ADMINISTRATION BY UNITED STATES MILITARY GOVERNMENT.

This being the last summary of the commerce of the Island of Cuba that will be published by the Bureau of Insular Affairs of the War Department, the following comparisons and other data relating to the trade of the Island while under control of this government are presented for the information and consideration of the commercial reader:

The total value of merchandise, exclusive of gold and silver, imported into Cuba during American occupation, was $225,437,135, of which 74 per cent. was received at the port of Havana; Cienfuegos with 9 per cent., and Santiago with 8 per cent. are respectively far in the lead of any of the remaining ports.

In shipment of exports Havana leads with 59 per cent. of the total value; Cienfuegos, Cardenas and Matanzas together having 25 per cent. to their credit, while each of the remaining ports falls far short of either of the above named. The exports for this period, exclusive of gold and silver, amounted in the aggregate to $180,609,067, being nearly $45,000,000 less than the importation. Much of this difference is attributable to the destruction of property and damage to agricultural industries occasioned by war.

Of the imports the United States furnished 43 per cent., United Kingdom 15, Spain 15, France 4½ and Germany 4 per cent.; the importations from all Europe were 41 per cent. of the whole amount, nearly equaling the United States. In the matter of exports the comparative ratios are quite different, the United States taking 75 per cent., United Kingdom 9, Germany 7, France 2½, Spain 2 per cent.; all Europe receiving but 22 per cent., which consisted principally of tobacco and cigars, sponges, honey, hides, textile fibres, wax and rum; practically all of the sugar exported went to the United States.

The balance of trade between Cuba and the United States during American occupation has been decidedly in favor of the former, although not to so great an extent as in previous years. During this period Cuba, while importing from all countries $45,000,000 worth more than she sold, yet exported more than $37,000,000 worth to the United States in excess of her purchases from the latter. It is to be noted, however, that the ratio of imports from the United States is materially greater than it was during the Spanish regime. It might be remarked that the trade of the United States has not kept pace in any of the Latin American countries with its wonderful strides in other parts of the world.

More than 69 per cent. of Cuban exports during American control consisted of agricultural products, and 47 per cent. of imports consisted of food and animals. Breadstuffs and other provisions, horses and mules in large quantities were brought from the United States, while cattle were procured from Mexico, Central America and South America. It is reasonable to suppose that there will be a gradual diminution of the importation of live stock.

During the time of American control on the island the year 1901 presents the fairest view of its commerce for any one year of said period, and in showing comparative data this year is in consequence frequently referred to.

The comparison of the volume of trade shows that the imports for the calendar year 1901, which amounted to $66,583,973, were $75,000 less than for the preceding period, and $200,000 less than for 1899, while the exports for 1901, amounting to $63,278,380, exceeded those of 1900 by $14,300,000, and of those of 1899 by $18,200,000, the imports showing but little change, and the exports rapidly increasing. The decrease in imports affected chiefly the United States, United Kingdom, France and Spain, Germany making gains. The importations from South America, consisting for the most part of food products and animals, were largely increased in 1901. The gain in exports to the United States in 1901 over 1900 was approximately $15,000,000, from which it appears that there was a decrease of about $500,000 in value of exports to other countries in 1901 as compared with 1900.

Receipts of corn from the United States are assuming considerable magnitude, the values for 1899, 1900 and 1901 being in round numbers $560,000, $607,000 and $880,000 respectively. For each of these years more than $2,000,000 worth of wheat flour was imported from the United States. The purchase of bituminous coal from the United States in 1901 amounted to $1,124,532; this trade promises to increase largely.

The trade in cotton goods with the United States is increasing, but is yet comparatively very small, amounting to but 8 per cent. of the total importations of these goods in 1901. The amount imported in this year exceeded six millions of dollars, of which the United Kingdom sent more than 53 per cent. The importations for 1899 and 1900 aggregated $6,237,330 and $6,116,068 respectively, the United States supplying 21 per cent. in 1899 and 7 per cent. in 1900, while the United Kingdom furnished 35 per cent. and 49 per cent. respectively for these years.

More than $200,000 worth of cement was imported in 1901; owing, however, to the establishment of a large factory on the island, which it is claimed will turn out a superior quality of cement, importations in this line will probably become lighter.

The rehabilitation of old industries, the establishment of new ones and the building of railroads, bridges, etc., must create a heavy and constant demand for iron and steel products. During the occupation by the United States there was imported iron and steel and their finished forms, exclusive of agricultural implements, to the value of more than $15,500,000, of which the United States supplied more than $12,000,000, or 77 per cent. of the whole.

The United States also furnished nearly three-fourths of all agricultural machinery, amounting to $1,037,714, imported by Cuba during the same period.

Out of a total valuation of $306,924 for clocks and watches 31 per cent. was imported from the United States.

Of copper and its finished forms the United States supplied 64 per cent..

The importations of starch have decreased from 6,408,819 pounds, valued at $190,375 in 1899, to 4,292,282 pounds, valued at $113,837 in 1900, and 704,614 pounds, valued at $25,904 in 1901. In these years the United States exported 47, 24 and 16 per cent. of the respective values; United Kingdom 21 per cent. and 53 per cent. for 1899 and 1900 respectively, with none whatever reported in 1901. The steady decrease is attributed to local manufactures.

The importations of oils of all kinds during the period of American occupation aggregated in value $5,318,718, olive oil being in the lead with $2,885,400 worth, and of this commodity Spain sent more than 97 per cent. Crude petroleum, other natural oils, naptha and illuminating oils amounted to $1,830,670, of which less than $13,000 came from other countries than the United States. Of the $206,582 worth of animal oils the United States furnished more than $176,000, and of vegetable oils other than olive oil, more than 34 per cent.

During this period more than half a million dollars worth of patent and proprietary medicines were received, about 44 per cent. of these articles coming from the United States.

Thirty per cent. of the $2,446,544 worth of stone, earthen, china and glassware received during the same period came from the United States.

The importation of boots, shoes and sandals amounted to more than $6,800,000, of which Spain sold 73 per cent. and the United States 26 per cent. It has been claimed that one reason for this great difference is due to the alleged fact that our manufacturers do not furnish the style of foot wear preferred by the Cubans. The importations of 1901 amounted to $1,684,572, of which 72 per cent. was from Spain and nearly 28 per cent. from the United States. It will be perceived that this trade of more than one and one-half million dollars per annum is divided between Spain and the United States in the ratio of nearly 3 to 1.

Spain leads in shipments of paper and its manufactures, furnishing Cuba 35 per cent. of the total of nearly three million dollars for the period of American occupation, United States being second with about 28 per cent.

Importations of provisions, including meat and dairy products, during United States occupancy, amounted in value to more than $29,000,000, more than 66 per cent. of which was imported from the United States, the remainder being widely distributed; Uruguay and Argentina (whose shipments consisted almost entirely of jerked beef) with 17 per cent. of the total, being the next largest exporters. Quite a large amount of dairy products came from Spain, Denmark, United Kingdom and the Netherlands. Spain enjoys almost a monopoly of the sales of candles and soap, supplying 88 per cent. out of about $300,000 worth of the former, and $500,000, or approximately 90 per cent. of the soap imported into Cuba during 1901. Spain also supplies more than half the candy and confectionery which is imported. France furnished nearly 72 per cent. of distilled liquors during the year 1901, United States less than 5 per cent.

Cuba imports annually more than $2,500,000 worth of vegetables, about half of which (excepting onions and canned goods from Spain) come from the United States. For 1901 the importations of wine amounted to more than $1,700,000, of which Spain sent 98 per cent.

The United States has a good showing in exports of wood and its manufactures to Cuba, though in one article—that of hogsheads and barrels—Spain is a close second.

From climatic reasons Cuba is not expected to be a heavy purchaser of wool and woolen goods, yet in 1901 she expended the considerable sum of $610,000 in this way, of which the United Kingdom supplied more than one-half, while the United States is credited with less than 4 per cent.

EXPORTS.

Sugar constituted practically one-half of the exports for 1901, and while it may continue to be the leading product there are other interests which are growing and which may become of vital importance to the future prosperity of the island. By far the greatest of these is tobacco, of which, in its different forms, there was exported in 1901, more than $25,000,000 worth.

SUGAR.

Sugar production in Cuba first began to assume important proportions about the year 1840, when the crop amounted to 200,000 tons. (This year is also noted as being the first in which records of the beet sugar industry appeared).

The production increased to 322,000 tons in 1853, and to 749,000 tons in 1868, when what is known as the "Ten Years War" began. However, for the first seven years of this war the crops averaged 700,000 tons, but in 1876 fell off to 590,000 tons, and in 1877 to 520,000 tons; in 1878, the last year of the war, the production was 533,000 tons. For the ten years—1879-1888—the crops averaged nearly 600,000 tons. During the last ten years of Spanish occupancy the production varied greatly, exceeding one million tons in each of the years 1894 and 1895, and after the beginning of the insurrection, running as low as 225,000 tons in 1896 and 212,000 tons in 1897. The average for this decade was about 660,000 tons.

The exportation of sugar for the calendar year 1899 was in round numbers 317,000 tons; in 1900 287,000 tons, and in 1901 590,000 tons, and during the entire period of American occupation more than 1,400,000 tons.

It is estimated by good authorities that about two million acres, or one-fourteenth of the total acreage of the island is devoted to the culture of sugar cane. With the establishment of new plants equipped with the latest appliances, the planters secured from violence, and a removal of the onerous burdens of the various taxes formerly imposed by the Government of Spain, the acreage in cane may be greatly increased and the cost of production be reduced to a minimum.

TOBACCO.

Two great checks to tobacco raising in recent years have been a lack of laborers and of oxen. In regard to cattle, what were not seized by the Spanish Government were killed or taken by insurgents to such an extent that in some districts they virtually disappeared altogether, and while this state of affairs existed an import duty of $22 on oxen, and of $10 on cows, per head, was exacted, rendering it impossible for planters to replenish their supply of cattle, and without oxen the raising of tobacco is profitless. Since American occupation there has been a heavy importation of cattle, and the tobacco industry has already revived. The production while heavy and important now, is light compared with what it will become if conditions remain normal.

The value of raw and manufactured tobacco exported in 1900 exceeded, for the first time that of sugar, but the partial rehabilitation of the sugar industry has so increased the output of sugar that in 1901 its exported value exceeded that of tobacco by about one-fifth. The acreage profit of tobacco is greater than that of sugar, but the cultivation of it requires more skill on the part of laborers. The best grades and the greatest quantities of Cuban tobacco are raised in the western provinces. A peculiar feature of this plant, as well as of many, if not all others, is that it thrives better and reaches greater perfection in a certain small area than elsewhere. For instance, the best tobacco in the world is found in the Vuelta Abajo, in Pinar del Rio province. Whether it owes its excellence to certain elements contained in the soil, to the climate, or to the topography of the country, has not been ascertained. This remarkable phenomenon regarding the superiority of certain products of limited territory is well known in fruit raising, particularly in grape culture. While about all of Cuba is susceptible to the growth of tobacco of various grades of quality, it being indigenous there, the best grades, and consequently the highest priced, can only be grown in a limited section.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Of the remaining $7,000,000 worth of exports in 1901, unmanufactured wood constituted, in round numbers, $1,200,000; molasses $1,200,000; fruits and nuts $1,000,000; iron and manganese ore $900,000, and sponges $480,000. Hides of cattle, distilled spirits and honey were also items of importance in a lesser degree.

It should be borne in mind that but little more than one-half of the island has ever been under cultivation, and that ravages and waste of war had reduced agricultural production to a minimum.

Regarding the possibilities in agriculture, it seems remarkable that Cuba, with a soil and climate peculiarly adapted to the culture of coffee, last year imported nearly $1,800,000 worth for home consumption, yet at one time her exports of coffee exceeded those of Java. The decline of the coffee industry is attributed in a great degree, to successive violent hurricanes, which occurred about the middle of the last century, damaging the crops and discouraging the planter, and also to the growth of the more profitable sugar industries. The province of Santiago, in which sugar cane is not so extensively grown as in other sections, is particularly adapted to the raising of coffee. A singularly fortunate feature connected with the growth and development of the coffee berry is that the tree thrives better in the shade, and that by utilizing fruit trees—especially the banana palm—for this purpose, the planter secures the benefit of two valuable crops from the same land.

Mention has been made of the large importations of corn and of vegetables into Cuba, and this occurs in spite of the fact that corn, beets, cabbage, cucumbers, lettuce, onions, potatoes and radishes can be easily grown, provided the proper amount of energy and intelligence required for their cultivation is employed.

Efforts are being made to revive the great fruit trade, which was at one time a very important source of revenue to the island. More than $550,000 worth of bananas were shipped in 1901 as compared with less than $115,000 in 1899, and $250,000 worth of pineapples in 1901 as compared with approximately $50,000 in 1899.

With regular methods and ordinary attention to the business Cuba should be able to compete successfully with California and Florida in the fruit trade of the United States. The following are some of the tropical and sub-tropical fruits which can be easily and successfully grown: Apricots, bananas, dates, figs, lemons, limes, mangoes, melons, nectarines, oranges, pineapples and pomegranates. Cocconut groves suffered greatly during the war. The productivity of the cocoa tree can be permanently destroyed in a few minutes by cutting out the crown with a knife, and as it takes from five to seven years for a tree to commence bearing, this source of revenue will necessarily be sometime in developing.

For two hundred and fifty years after the beginning of the colonization of Cuba the raising and exporting of cattle was virtually its sole industry, yet in 1901 the importations of cattle reached more than 370,000 in number, valued at nearly eight and one-half million dollars. Great numbers of hogs, horses and mules were also imported. This state of affairs was brought about by destruction of stock incident to war and by high import taxes levied under Spanish rule. Under normal conditions the island will raise not only enough animals for home use and consumption, but a surplus of cattle and hogs for exportation. The abundance of grass at all seasons for cattle, the inexhaustible supply of berries from palm trees for hogs, and good water for both, make Cuba an ideal stock raising country.

IMMIGRATION.

In giving the following data, as well as that connected with the carrying trade, the calendar year 1901 is selected for the reason that statistics on these subjects were not reported prior to July 1, 1900, and the figures for 1901 are believed to present a correct idea of the average normal conditions while the affairs of the island were under American control.

During the year 1901 Cuba received 22,894 immigrants. While nearly every nationality in the world was represented, the great majority were from Spain, amounting in number to 15,278. The United States furnished 2,277, Mexico 1,386, Porto Rico 1,289 and China 654. The illiterates numbered 7,276 and the number having less than $30 each was 12,528. Though 10,734 out of 19,201 male immigrants are listed as laborers and servants, 48 different occupations are enumerated. Total number having professions 896; of skilled laborers, clerks, etc., 2,374, and of miscellaneous occupations 14,967; including women and children, 4,657 are reported as having no occupation. Laborers and servants came from Spain, Porto Rico and China principally. There were 1,468 farmers, 2,664 merchant dealers and grocers. The members of the clergy numbered 73, of whom 38 were from Spain. Of the total number nineteen thousand seven hundred and ninety-nine were of Latin extraction, which indicates that the racial condition will not be perceptibly disturbed by the recent political changes.

CARRYING TRADE—IMPORTS.

Including gold and silver the total importations into Cuba for the calendar year 1901 reached the sum of $67,753,108, the following ratios of per cent. showing the distribution by vessels:

American, 32; British, 8; French, 2; German, 5; Norwegian, 16; all other, including domestic, 37.

Included in "all other" is the amount carried under the Spanish flag, of which separate account was not recorded prior to July 1, 1901. For the six months ending December 31, 1901, imports arriving in Spanish bottoms aggregated more than $9,377,000; estimating this to be one-half of the year's business for Spain it will appear that the Spanish vessels should be credited with about 28 per cent. of the import carrying trade, and that American, Spanish and Norwegian vessels delivered more than three-fourths of the importations.

The imports from the United States aggregating $28,470,000 were delivered by vessels carrying the following flags:

American, 57 per cent.; British, 6; German, 1; Norwegian, 22, and all other, 14 per cent.

CARRYING TRADE—EXPORTS.

Exports, including gold and silver, during the year 1901 aggregated $66,502,169, carried in vessels flying the following flags:

American, 51 per cent.; British, 16; French, 4; German, 3; Norwegian, 17, and all other, including domestic, 9 per cent.

Cuba exported to the United States in 1901, commodities, including gold and silver, to the amount of $50,015,954, which was conveyed in the following bottoms:

American, 45 per cent.; British, 21; German, 3; Norwegian, 22, and all other, including domestic, 9 per cent.

The value of imports into Cuba from all countries other than the United States, in 1901, was $39,282,842, of which amount $5,893,226, or 15 per cent. came in American vessels.

The value of exports for the same period to countries other than the United States was $16,486,215, of which $11,564,733, or 70 per cent. was carried in American vessels.

SUMMARY.

COMMERCE OF THE ISLAND OF CUBA.

IMPORTS AND EXPORTS OF MERCHANDISE, MAY, 1902.

[NOTE.—Beginning July 1, 1900, the statistical reports to the Division of Insular Affairs were based upon a new schedule, giving the classification of commodities imported and exported much more in detail than were required by the schedule in effect prior to that date. Owing to this change and to the further addition on July 1, 1901, of twenty-two commodities, it is impossible to make comparison by articles and countries in some instances.]
